Revitalization efforts advance for downtown

by DOUG DUSIK
Lakeland Newspapers

Community leaders are taking the next major step towards revitalizing downtown Antioch — educating themselves.

Step one was organizing and committing

To research how Antioch will create a vibrant and healthy downtown future, eight committees have been organized with specific goals. The committees and their contact persons are listed on page 6.

ting to the project. Just after the holidays last winter, CAN — Community Action Now — was formed.

CAN member and Village Board Trustee Larry Hanson recalled, "We said either it can be done or else we'd can the idea."

The idea was not canned and in May, the group met with downtown revitalization consultant Bert Stitt for a one-day retreat in Gurnee.

"They needed to look at and study the options for a management program downtown," said Stitt, who worked 10 years in Wisconsin before striking off on his own.

Among the issues that came up: facade improvements, streetscape, business recruitment, marketing, parking and traffic,

"all very common issues in every community," Stitt said.

The consultant said he does not tell people what to do, he let's them decide what they need. Then he gives guidance.

"My goal is completed when my clients no longer need me," Stitt said.

"There's a lot of great ideas out there but how do you make it a reality," said Hanson. "We needed someone to come in and tell us how to communicate — to be a driving force and get us active."

Subsequent meetings resulted in the appointment of eight committees with a specific contact person to research the areas found most in need of attention by CAN.

"People get all fired up and they realize they have to do something. What they don't realize is that before they do something they must get educated," Stitt said.

"Antioch wanted to know what they could do immediately to show that they were doing something about the downtown. I told them, 'Nothing.' What you can do immediately is talk about the issues intelligently."

Judy Perryman, owner of Tulip Patch, volunteered to be CAN's chairwoman because, "I believed enough in what I heard. I was excited enough and the response to (Continued on Page 6)

Cost for lunch up

by DOUG DUSIK
Lakeland Newspapers

Parents will be shelling out an extra coin for school lunches this fall in both Antioch districts.

Other local school districts reported already raising prices or having it under consideration.

Last week, both Antioch School District 34 and Antioch Community High School raised next year's hot lunch prices 10-20 cents.

Dist. 34 reported a $3,000 deficit last year in the school lunch program "created largely because of the junior high program where we tend to serve larger portions of vegetables, fruits, etc.," said Superintendent Donald Skidmore.

Additionally, food costs and food service personnel wages continue to increase while government commodities decrease, he said.

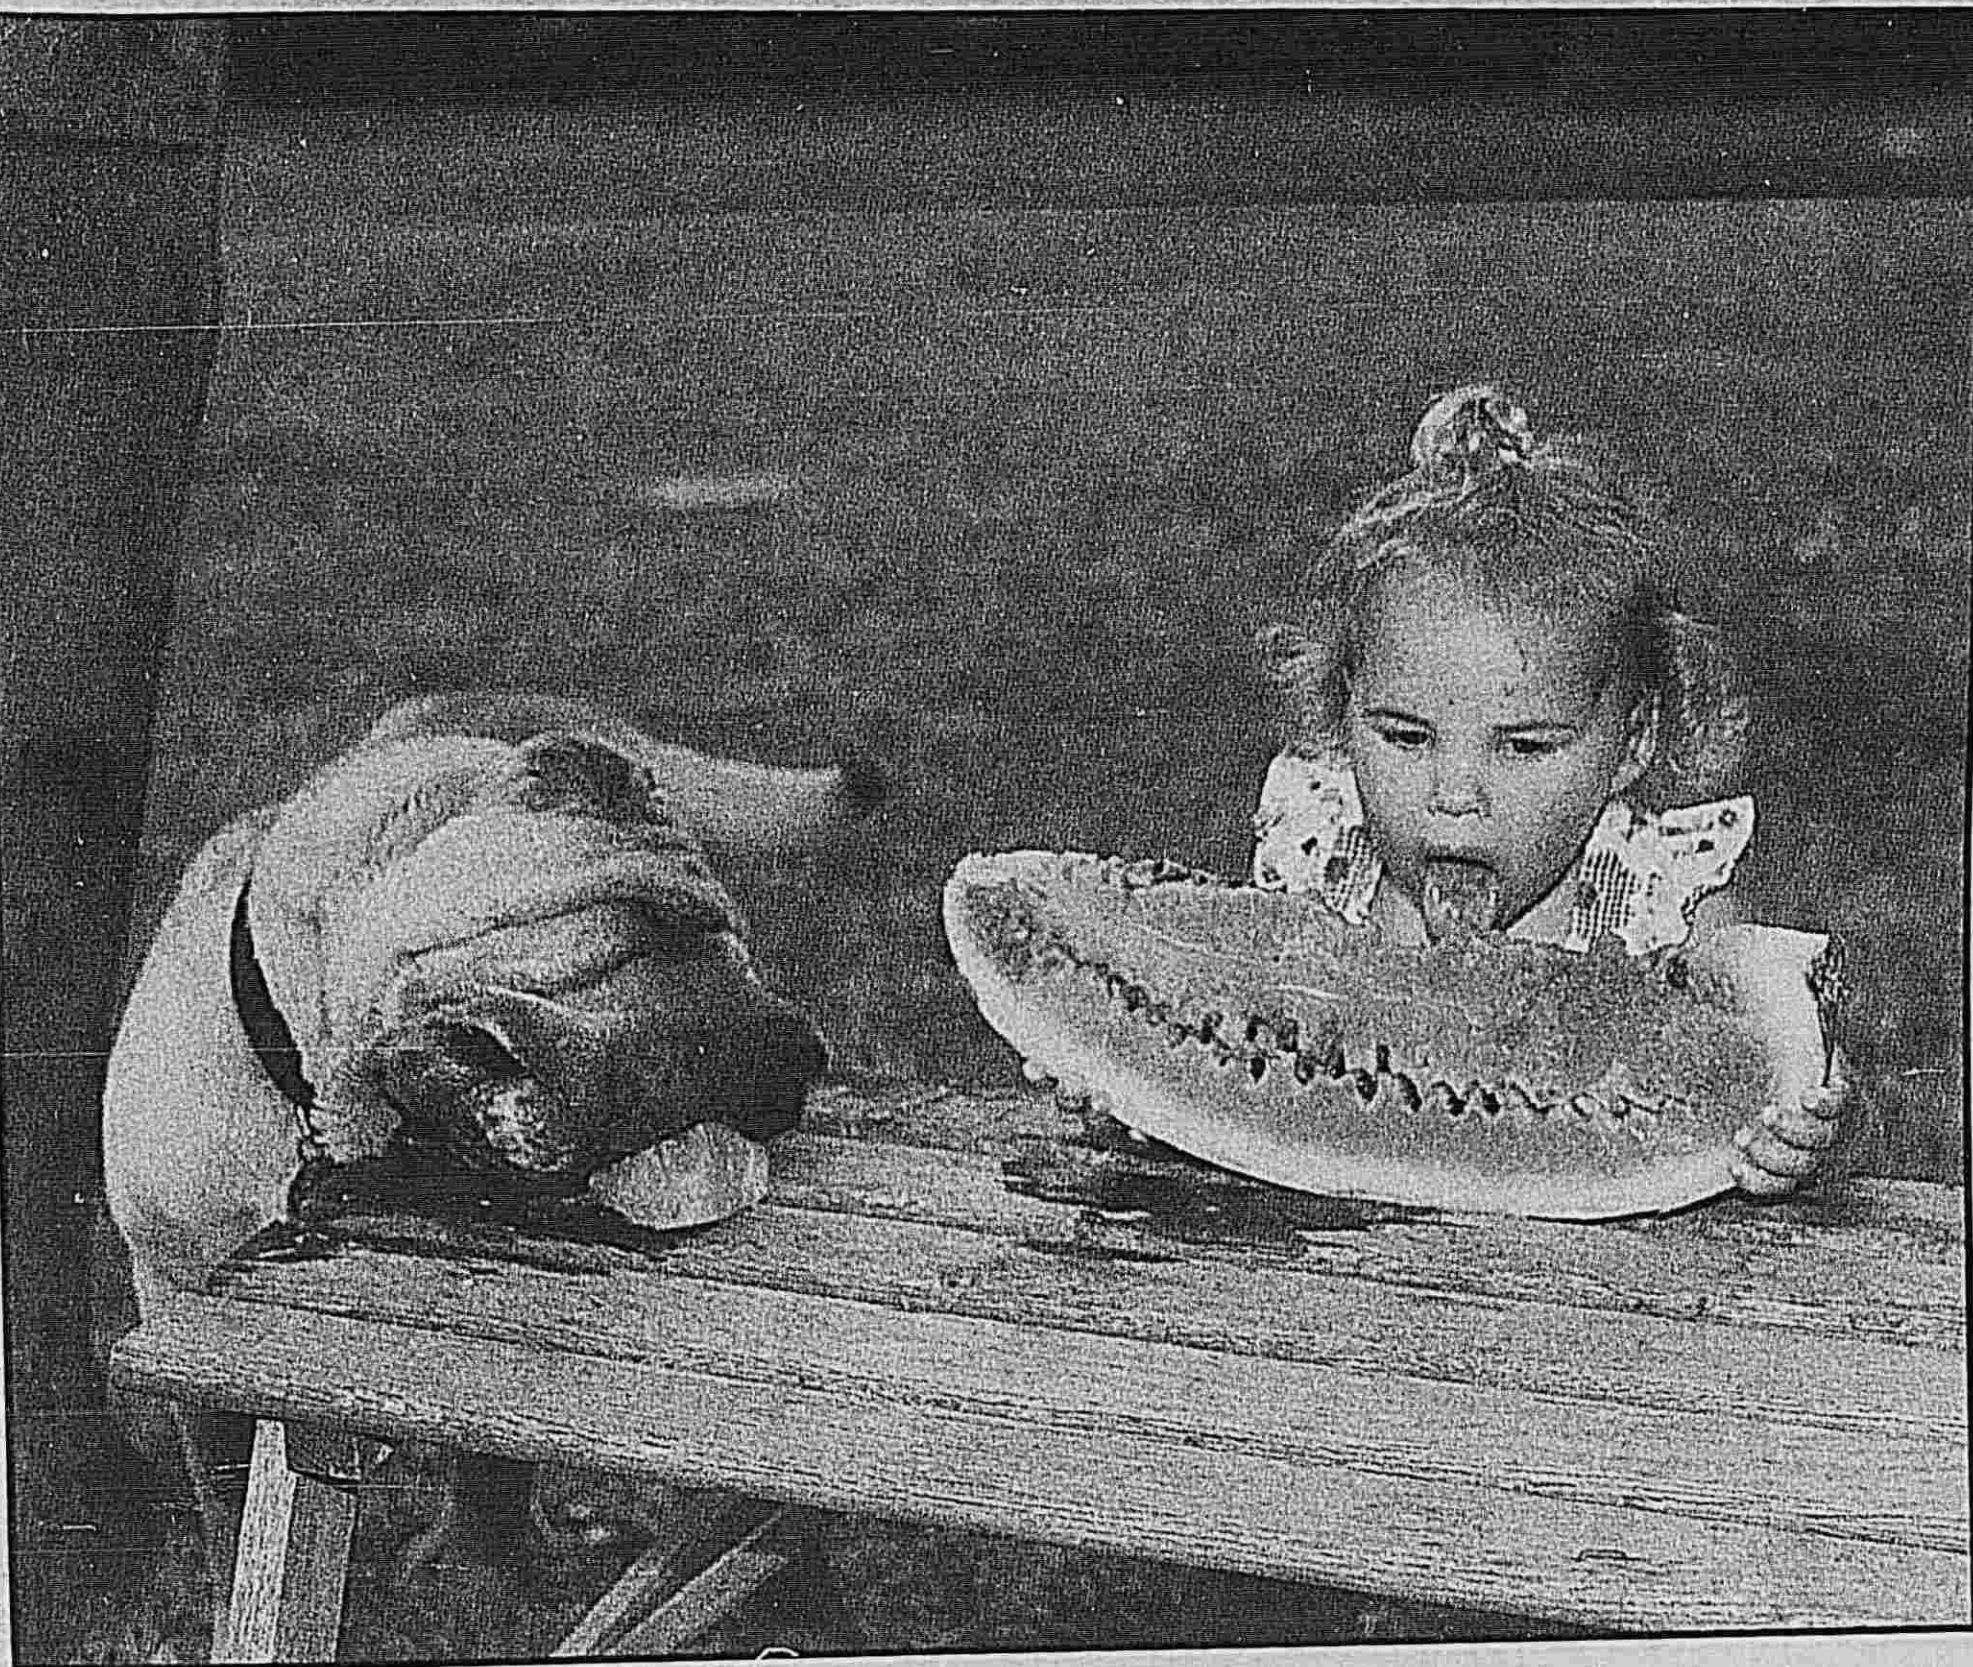

The board accepted Skidmore's recommendation that daily lunch prices be hiked to $1.10 for grades first through fifth and $1.20 for grades sixth through eighth.

Last year, Antioch School District 34 charged pupils $1.05 per lunch.

"The increase in the fees should bring our program back into the black and our lunch prices will still be among the lowest in the county," Skidmore said in his recommendation.

Antioch Community High School came up $10,000-$13,000 short in last year's lunch program expenses, according to Ken Wierschem, the school's business manager.

Wierschem cites the increase in food costs and wages to food service personnel. "If you put it all together, it's a single (Continued on Page 8)

Former resident dies in accident

ROUND LAKE—A former Round Lake resident died Saturday following a two-vehicle accident in Racine County, Wis. Deborah Piasecki, 36, who lived in Bristol, Wis., died of internal injuries during surgery at Milwaukee Medical Center where she was transported by helicopter. Piasecki's car was hit by an oncoming pickup truck at Routes 45 and 20 in Wisconsin after she failed to yield to the right of way while turning east at Route 20. Piasecki's husband, Henry, and the driver and passenger of the pick-up were taken to Milwaukee Medical and treated for injuries.

18 visitors

INGLESIDE—Eighteen boys and girls from Japan will spend a half day in class at Gavin School during a visit Aug. 26-Sept. 3, a sequel to a trip to Japan last spring by 17 Gavin students. Asst. Supt. Robert Bein of Gavin said the itinerary being planned includes visiting local points of interest, a trip to Springfield and a day in Chicago. The visitors and their four chaperones will stay with local host families.

Park talks future

GURNEE—Gurnee Park Dist. presented its vision of the future to an audience of more than 200 residents Tuesday at Viking Junior High. The master plan is a revision of a five-year plan completed in 1983.

Survey results in

GRAYSLAKE—Grayslake Community Park Dist.'s Residents Advisory Committee held the second of two meetings July 25 to discuss the results of a residents survey. Topping the list of residents' wishes was a community center and swimming pool.

Density worries

THIRD LAKE—Concerns regarding schools to safety of their youngsters led a Third Lake resident to organize a meeting in which residents could ask questions about development on the McKay property. A proposal is currently before Grayslake's committees for 45 single-family homes, 10 townhomes in one section and eight manor homes in one section and 14 in another. Plans call for commercial to front Washington St. and single-family homes as well as a private school. The 26-acre parcel, which was once designated for purchase by the Lake County Forest Preserve, is being held by land holding company LeWa. Florence McKay will continue to live on the land.

New assistant superintendent

ROUND LAKE AREA—Dist. 116's new assistant superintendent is a familiar face to students and teachers in the area. Johanne Dittman was recently voted to fill the position held by Robert Sherman who is now district superintendent. Though a newcomer to the position, she has been associated with the district for 20 years in various aspects of education including work with SEDOL as an itinerant teacher and supervisor.

E-911 all set

GRAYSLAKE—Grayslake's E-911 system will be unveiled at a press conference next week. Grayslake Police Dept., village board members and representatives from Illinois Bell Telephone are expected to explain the E-911 system, which begins July 29.

Lake donation

LINDENHURST—The Village this week accepted ownership of Lake Potomac, a 12-acre lake surrounded by natural habitat and the Lake Potomac subdivision. The lake was donated by Guy Lolmaugh of Modern Home Builders Inc. and Terry Denoma of Century 21 Leech and Assoc. as a gesture of thanks to the Village for its cooperation. Lolmaugh and Denoma also donated $10,410 to the Village, in part for weed and algae control and a limnology study.

Tax concerns

GURNEE—A Milwaukee firm has been appointed to collect rent from a Greenfield, Wis. shopping center owned by Western Development Corp. so that the property is not foreclosed upon. Milwaukee County officials are grappling with $796,563 in unpaid taxes while Waukesha County is trying to recover $878,385. "Greenfield Fashion Center owes more than 25 percent of all delinquent taxes in Milwaukee County," treasurer John Siefert said. Western officials said Gurnee Mills is a separate partnership.

History book

LAKE VILLA—The Village has completed a book detailing its 90-year history, and copies should be available to the public for $5 in late August. The book includes the history of businesses and organizations and about 13 pages of recollections from local residents.

Redevelopment

ANTIOCH—Inspired by Wisconsin downtown revitalization consultant Bert Stitt, Antioch is researching ways to improve and make a more attractive downtown. Eight committees with distinct goals for downtown have been formed. The committees, consisting of merchants, Village administrators and citizens, are researching ways other communities make their downtowns vibrant and attractive.

Maxwell Street Days/Taste of Antioch 1991

It was hot, it was humid, it was windy. But with great deals, great food and plenty of great entertainment, Maxwell Street Days/Taste of Antioch was a four-day festival of fun for visitors and local residents.

Top row, from left: Bargains were not just for people, as Joe and Kathy Monteros and their dog Rocky found out while shopping in front of Pine Tree Pet Shop; Marty X, the rock & roll chef, played a number of food-inspired songs with his backup brass, the Rex Horns; and former Antioch resident Karie Lynn, who now lives in Lake Bluff, sang popular songs on a humid Thursday afternoon.

Middle: Mike Zajauskas of Fox Lake took advantage of an umbrella table to enjoy his Taste of Antioch selection; Jean Todd of Antioch shopped for deals among the many clothing merchants; and Jodi Oplawski of Antioch was dressed for the weather while attending to business at J.J. Blinkers.

Bottom: Carved wooden pelicans waited to be purchased outside of Kathy's Cottage; Hogan's was one of 14 local restaurants representing the Village in the Taste of Antioch tent; and Frank DiMarco of DiMarco's restaurant serves up wine to tasters at the Chamber of Commerce sponsored free wine-tasting. — photos by Doug Dusik

Village Board adopts $5.06-million budget

The Antioch Village Board unanimously accepted Tuesday a $5,061,645 budget for 1991-1992.

The figures are up $1.5 million from this year's budget, however, most of that increase stems from a $1.2 million bond for the extension of Orchard Street, Village officials said.

Excluding the costs to bond the Orchard Street extension, this year's budget is up by about 3 percent, the Village says.

Among this year's larger increases: public works salaries, up $55,350; improvements to parks, up $27,200; police department salaries, up $98,104; 9-1-1 equipment, up $66,183; a roof, sign and generator for the fire safety building, $50,000; and stop and go lights, $120,000.

The larger decreases to budgeted expenses over last year include: the Tax Increment Finance Fund, $158,950; revenue sharing, $26,000; and construction costs to the new sewer plant, which decreased by $160,000.

The enterprise fund also dropped for 1991-1992 over the previous year by $233,750. The Village expects to spend $1.2 million on enterprise accounts next year.

Revenue bonds and interest are expected to increase in the new fiscal year, and Antioch has budgeted an additional $16,000 to compensate.

Two new categories in the 1991-1992 budget are the police compensation board, accounting for $22,250, and the Motor Fuel Tax, $120,000, which is budgeted for stop and go lights.

Two items — fire prevention and industrial pretreatments — did not change over the last year. Fire prevention this year and next year is budgeted at $6,150. Industrial pretreatments remained at $24,000.

Emmons appoints board member

The Emmons School District School Board appointed Deborah Diemer to replace a seat vacated by Jody Colatrino, who moved out of the district. Diemer will fill the term until the November elections.

CAN

Bert (Stitt) made me feel it was worth my time."

Perryman said CAN's focus right now is education. "Education is key," she said. "We need to explore other communities and see what other communities have done."

CAN members are taking field trips to other villages and gathering information to be presented at later field trips. The group is always looking for others who may be interested.

Since the original committee formed, "We've added people," Perryman said, "but we need more people yet."

She said the strength of CAN is its broad base of members. "It's not just merchants," she said.

Hanson said CAN is funded with proceeds from the Village's Tax Increment Finance (TIF) district funds, which directs revenue from tax increment increases into the section of the community considered

"the old downtown."

He said the money was coming in and ideas were being thrown around "but it was a lot like a dog chasing its own tail." To further the cause, CAN was developed and Stitt was called in.

"What it takes is a lot of energy and money — kind of like blood sweat and tears, and money," the consultant said. "It requires a consensus of what needs to be done, then it requires education of how other communities have done it."

The consensus is an important aspect of downtown revitalization because it typically prevents any political interference, Stitt said.

"Tenants and merchants are independents and they don't like to be told what to do," he said. "Ordinances are not the way to go. People who own the property must agree on something to do together."

Stitt said it's these same people who have allowed downtowns to become less-than-attractive areas. "A downtown looks trashy because the people who own the property there allow it to look that way," he said.

It used to be downtown merchants and property owners had a monopoly on business and housing there, and didn't have to care what the area looked like, Stitt explained.

Now, with competition as heavy as it

'Education is key. We need to explore other communities and see what other communities have done' — CAN chairwoman Judy Perryman is, merchants and property owners can't be apathetic. "You can't have anything of value and not reinvest in it from time to time," he said. "Even a diamond ring has to be washed."

Of Antioch, the consultant said, "It's a really a lovely place and space, if it could be cleaned up and painted with colors that are complementary and appropriate."

"Our future down here is great," Hanson said. "With all the housing and future development around here it tells us how we're going to after this area."

Libertyville revitalizing through 'MainStreet'

by BILL GUIDA
Lakeland Newspapers

With paid staff in place this year for the first time, Ellen Brin says MainStreet Libertyville, Inc. should have no problems revitalizing the downtown area.

"All the resources are here to make this thing work," said Brin in a recent telephone interview.

While the paid staff includes only Brin and her part-time assistant, more than 200 volunteers from among MainStreet's 250 individual and corporate members provide significant support to help make the non-profit organization work.

According to Brin, volunteers help out in a variety of ways and are drawn from a broad base, including housewives, commuters, business owners, and residents from nearby communities, like Green Oaks, who like to shop downtown.

MainStreet Libertyville is a local version of the nationwide MainStreet U.S.A. program, which formed as a response to the proliferation of shopping malls forming away from town centers and the concurrent deterioration of downtown areas.

"This is the fourth MainStreet town I've been in," said Brin. She came here after a stint at a Grand Junction, Col., radio station where she did economic development work.

It was her work in the development field that exposed her to MainStreet programs, Brin said.

After she saw how successfully the program worked in Colorado and Wyoming cities, Brin, a University of Illinois graduate with degrees in Urban Planning and Advertising, said she was convinced Libertyville would benefit similarly.

The organization receives half public and half private funds to meet its approximately $100,000 budget, and its operations are overseen by a 12-member board of directors, Brin explained.

Brin, who considers herself more a "coordinator" than a director, said an important facet of the local MainStreet operation is its networking link to counterparts in 700 communities in 37 states.

The organization employs a four-point plan for downtown development:

- organization of the entire community;
- promotion of the downtown as a place to live, work, and play;
- create a pedestrian-oriented design;
- provide analysis for economic restructuring.

"All four points work in a balance," Brin explained.

Hidden Creek developers agree to two buffer zones near marsh

Heeding recommendations by the Illinois Department of Conservation, developers of Hidden Creek have agreed to include two buffer zones in their planned community.

The preliminary plan for the Hidden Creek development was approved Monday by the Village Board.

The nearly 75 acres under planning are located on the east side of Deep Lake about a half-mile north of Rte. 173. Kathcon Development Corp. of Chicago is the developer.

The Board approved preliminary designs for 40 single-family homes on the property, which is near Red Wing Marsh and therefore required an IDOC study.

IDOC recommended that no homes be built east of a hedgerow area that borders the marsh.

Kathcon established a two-tiered buffer zone, and agreed that nothing would be built within 125 feet of the marsh area with another 50 feet of buffer that may only be used as backyard space or a septic field.

The final plan will be reviewed by the Antioch Planning Commission, then is planned to go before the Village Board Aug. 8.

Of the nearly 75 acres under planning, 13.5 are under water. The other 61 acres will be built on.

Since the Village has no sewer or water services to that area, the planned homes will use wells and septic systems.

Kathcon said it intends to start building on Hidden Creek as soon as final approval is granted by the Board. The homes for sale in the area are expected to cost between $300,000 and $500,000.

Special moments live forever with families

by LIZ SCHMEHL
(708)395-5380

Special Announcement

If there are any young people out there reading this particular column, by all means read on. In case you don't know it, parents do NOT have all of the answers. Often times we are as unsure of ourselves as you are. When in the process of raising you little buggers, we often worry and wonder if we are doing the right thing. We often wonder if you realize how much we love you and how important and special you are to us. The time passes all too quickly and you soon become adults. Good or bad, our job is done and we cannot take back our mistakes.

As you expertly take charge of your own lives and share special moments with us in very special ways, we soon realize maybe we did a few things right after all.

I would like to share a very special family moment with you as I brag about the very "special" way my daughter, Barbara, told me I was going to become a grandmother. That's right, folks, the Lizard is going to be a granny at last and this is how that special event was shared with me.

Barb called one day to come over for lunch. After she arrived we busied ourselves with this and that for a short time. I then gave her a raffle ticket I purchased for her and told her to tuck it safely away till the raffle date (which would be on her Aug. 18th birthday). As she tucked it safely into her purse, she said, "Mother, I have something for you," and she handed me a pretty plastic-coated bookmark. The words on the bookmark were "Grandmothers are a

Messages

I would like to say hello to Mary Bicanic from The Lizard. A mutual friend recently mentioned she met you in and about town and tells me you are continuing with your artistic talents. I have one question—"Do moms for weeks before they finally give in and let them make their call (moms are always concerned that they may be bothering me). To that I say what a nice and special way to be bothered.

So anyway, the big day comes. They are finally allowed to make that big call. At last they hear the voice of "Miss Liz" over the phone, then zap, they become tongue tied and speechless. After the initial "Hi, Miss Liz, this is whoever", I find myself doing most of the talking in response to a lot of yeses, okays, and alights from the other end.

The call I recently received from Troy Sunday was no exception. However, he did inform me they had a chipmunk in their house and we made tentative future plans for Troy to swim our pool, skate on our ramp and go for a walk with "Miss Liz". Thanks for calling, Troy. Your phone call was very special to me.

Survey Time

I have decided to take two surveys. I'll start off by telling you I was born and raised on the northwest side of Chicago. When I was in high school we used to occasionally go to play "Pee Wee" golf. Recently I went along to play "Pee Wee" golf with a group of friends. Actually I went along for the laughs, conversation and to keep score, because I do NOT enjoy playing the game.

The entire time we were at Congo River, I was harassed by one of my "younger" friends who insisted it was never called "Pee Wee" golf. She refers to it as "Miniature" golf. Does anyone out there remember it being called "Pee Wee" golf? Does anyone out there still refer to it as "Pee Wee" golf?

The second survey is how do you recite "Little Sally Saucer"? Seems I have learned a different version than my illustrious friends. I have her "weeping and crying for a nice young man" and "turning to the east and turning to the west and turning to the one that she loves best"! HELP!! Call me with your input so I can set my friends straight.

special blessing". To say I became happily emotional is an understatement. I will never forget that special moment between my second daughter and myself for as long as I live.

I want to take this opportunity to announce to everyone (from the rooftop) that come January, "LIZARD WILL BE A GRANNY!!" I also want to thank Barb publicly as I did privately, for sharing this very special time in her life with me in such a memorable, special way. I know you and Dan will make great parents and I am ready, willing and now able to become "GRANNY OF THE YEAR!!" How truly wonderful!

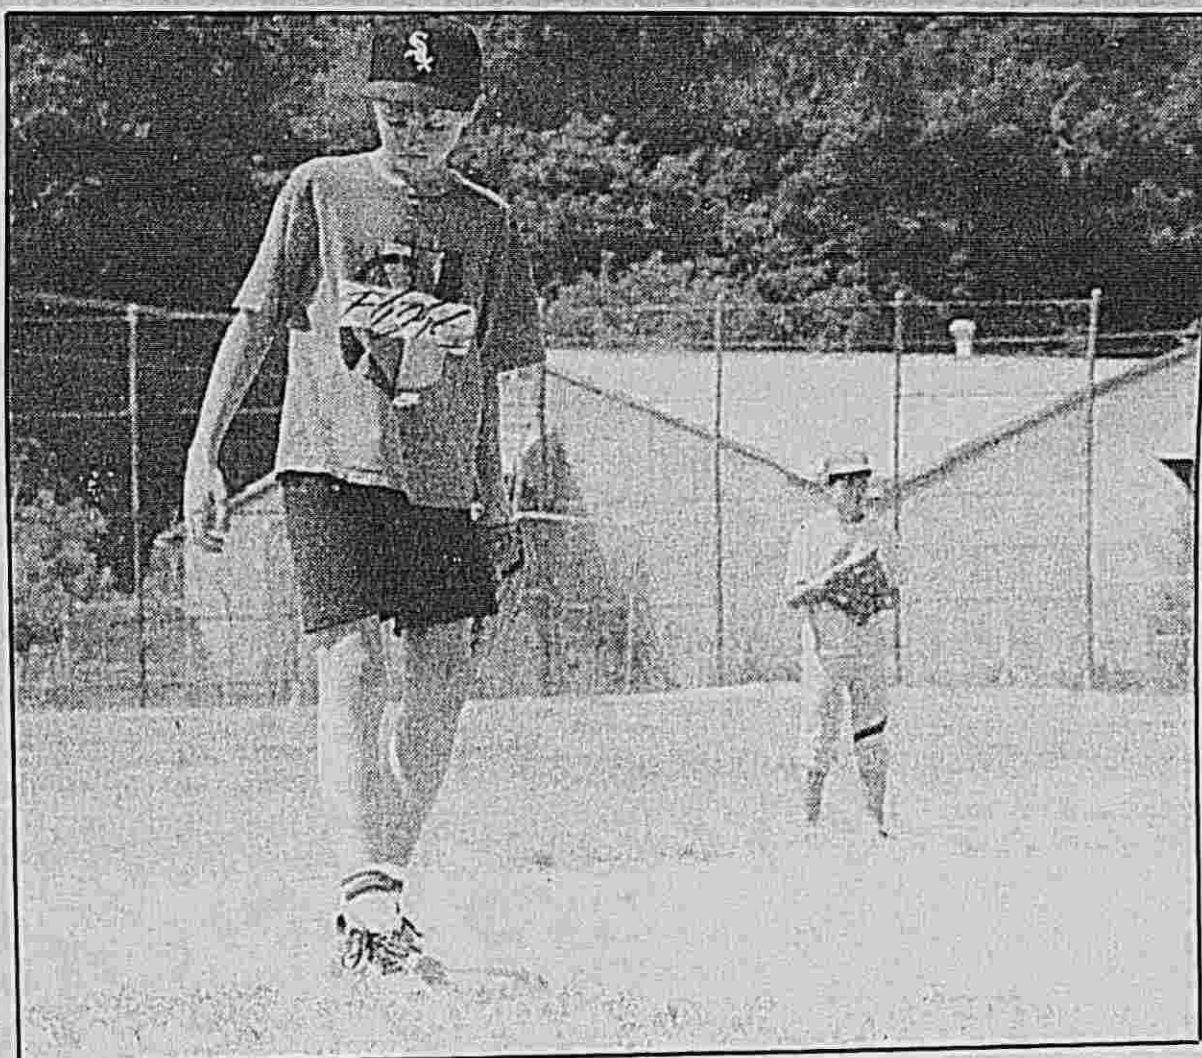

you still have the most beautiful and productive garden in Antioch?"

I would also like to say hello to Celia Bennett from Dee Samson. She thinks about you often, Ceil, and one day soon promises to surprise you with a letter. Right, Dee!

Finally, I extend a warm hello to Thelma Rhode of Antioch. It was fantastic seeing you looking so well after your lengthy illness. Seeing you so chipper and up and about truly brightened my day. You are in my thoughts.

Golden Anniversary

The happily married couple, Ken and Deanie Banister of Round Lake Beach, celebrated their 50th Wedding Anniversary on July 5. Joining the celebration were Steve and Carolyn Banister, Mike Banister of Lake Zurich, Dave Banister and Robin Bruski of Antioch, Sherry White and Hunter White of Cromwell, Conn., Staci White of Alexandria, Va., and Russ and Paula Wedemeyer of Lake Villa.

A reception was held at the Country Squire in Grayslake. The icing on the cake was when the "blushing bride" entered wearing the same dress she wore 50 years ago. Congratulations to a special couple.

Sladek will be an eighth-grader this fall at Antioch Upper Grade School. She enjoys dancing and writing and her favorite player is Gary Scheffeld.

Board expected to rule this week on dispatcher hearing

The Antioch Village Board was expected to make a decision Wednesday night regarding police dispatcher Susan Nitschneider, who was charged with "gross misconduct" in January by Police Chief Charles Miller.

On July 9, the Board met to hear Nitschneider's testimony and view videotapes showing the dispatcher, who was seven months pregnant, and a former police officer embracing and kissing.

The Board said it would review the tapes again and read the testimony of the former police officer, Michael Culat, involved in the allegations.

The Board's ruling was expected at a special meeting Wednesday night. The Antioch Public Safety Committee also was expected to meet Wednesday night and provide its own opinion on the situation, Chairman and Trustee Larry Hanson said.

According to Miller, 20 days of videotapes were filmed by the Illinois State Police, which installed the cameras at his request. Miller said the cameras were being used for leads on the department's missing mail.

In addition, the tapes filmed Nitschneider and Officer Michael Culat.

Culat's employment for the Antioch Police Department was terminated in March following a hearing before the Police and Fire Commission. He is appealing that decision in Lake County Circuit Court.

Nitschneider's hearing was postponed because of her pregnancy and maternity leave. She is still on salary, the Police Department reported.

Apartments red-tagged, lessors fined

Two Antioch apartments have been closed and the landlords fined more than $1,000 each because of health hazards and unsafe conditions.

The Village Board on July 15 fined Michael Erde $1,250 for a three-story rental property at 359 North Ave. and Santella DiNino $1,010 for property at 434 Filweber Court.

Both properties were red-tagged by Building Commissioner Chick Carstensen.

DiNino reportedly housed a family of three in a tiny room with no heat or sanitation and a "firetrap" in the basement, Carstensen said.

Erde reportedly had 16 people living in one of his rental units that had no garbage receptacles, leaking plumbing and no smoke detectors.

Bar loses license

An Antioch tavern's liquor license was revoked last week by the Illinois Liquor Control Commission for failing to pay back taxes.

Commissioners pulled the license of The Den, 27763 W. Grass Lake Road, and warned owner Thomas Steiskal that the business could be closed if all outstanding returns are not filed and delinquent taxes are not paid.

The director of the Illinois Department of Revenue said pulling liquor licenses is a highly effective last resort in recovering delinquent taxes, particularly sales tax.

VFW market this weekend

word — inflation," he said.

ACHS raised lunch prices by 10 cents last year but still came up in the hole, Wierschem said. This fall the price will jump 20 cents.

ACHS daily lunch prices will go to $1.60.

"With the 20 cents increase, we hope to break even," Wierschem said.

The Antioch districts are not alone. Grass Lake School District raised its lunch prices 5 cents in January.

Superintendent Ruth Bill said prices are not expected to increase this year even though the lunch program is not self-supportive.

The district is more interested in keep lunch prices "in the low end," she said. The 5-cent increase to $1.10 per lunch was made to "help offset the losses without burdening parents."

Grayslake High School lunch prices will run $1.35 in the fall, up 5 cents from last year. And Grant High School has yet to consider a price hike.

"We're not anticipating any but I would not be firm on that," Superintendent Don Krusencorf said. "We don't see any great increase but we want to review it, and we don't start that until Aug. 1."

Rolling the dice

In the suburbs, purchasing a home in a subdivision next to raw, undeveloped land always is a roll of the dice. New home buyers never can be certain what kind of new neighbors they'll have.

That's why owners of 17 Lindenhurst homes costing up to $225,000 are worried that their property values may sink if the original developer sells vacant property nearby to a company that might build homes of lesser value.

Despite pledges of support from elected officials, there tends to be a hollow ring to assurances of protection of property values, the vagaries of future development being what they are. New Lindenhurst Mayor Paul Baumunk said the village is committed to doing whatever is necessary to head off the possibility that nearby homes might cost $100,000 less than theirs. Considering the mountains of red tape involved, the hands of officialdom might be tied and they might not be able to deliver, no matter their good intentions.

The question of wide differentials in home styles and values becomes even more complicated when the neighboring subdivision is located in another municipality, such as the consternation of homeowners in upscale West Trails Subdivision, Grayslake, which is a stone's throw from a new development in Hainesville where homes in a decidedly more modest price range are planned.

Protection of property values is a way of life for many Lake County residents, especially those who will be here for only a short time due to occupational relocations. Picking the wrong spot can cost thousands of dollars at resale time.

For the Lindenhurst and West Trail homeowners, one thing is certain. They were there first. The situation is totally opposite of the whiners and complainers next to O'Hare Field who complain bitterly about jet noise or the new move-ins in Gurnee next to the North Shore Sanitary Works who suddenly find odors offensive.

Regardless of the existence of prior agreements with builders or covenants, buying a home next to a cornfield is a chancy thing. It's a roll of the dice.

Clippings no problem when left on lawn

by BERYL FLOM

When the sound of revving lawn mowers fills the suburbs, can the sight of bagged grass clippings be far behind?

Not only far behind, but nonexistent, say Dr. Bill Knoop, the creator of the "Don't Bag It Lawn Care Plan" which eliminates the bagging chore. The idea of this plan is to leave the grass clippings on the lawn while mowing so that the nutrients and water work their way back into the soil as the grass decomposes.

The plan recommends mowing when the grass is three to four inches high, and mowing at the highest setting of the lawnmower. This method will promote development of a stronger root system and a healthier lawn, with fewer weeds and greater drought resistance. Grass clippings do not contribute to thatch build-up. The lawn will recycle its own clippings, requiring less herbicide and fertilizer, while saving time and money!

As the first state to prohibit yard waste disposal in landfills, Illinois has chosen to recycle this material through the use of large-scale composting operations. Strong odors, caused by decomposing grass, have proven to be a major obstacle to public acceptance of this process. Further, it is not known whether chemicals and heavy metals are accumulating in the compost, resulting in possible harm to the environment. Dr. Knoop, of Texas A&M Univ., has successfully demonstrated that the "Don't Bag It" method can lower the volume of yard waste transported to compost sites by as much as 40%. Such a reduction in the volume of grass clippings should significantly decrease the odor which is currently causing much distress in areas surrounding Lake County sites.

Many of us have grown up with rotary powered mowers and grass catchers since the bagging of grass clippings became popular in the early 1950's. Due to recent yard waste restrictions and increased environmental awareness, we hope that the mulching mower will return to common use. Everyone, from the homeowner with the smallest, self-maintained lawn to the corporate center with expansive grounds, can participate in this plan that benefits all of us. If your landscape contractor does not suggest "Don't Bag It", just ask the company to use that system.

Lake County is implementing a publicity campaign to educate residents about the plan. The League encourages each community to mail the new "Don't Bag It" brochure with its town newsletter or utility bill to each resident and commercial establishment. The League of Women Voters of Lake County strongly supports this simple and environmentally-sound way of reducing solid waste and eliminating odor from anaerobic compost. If grass clippings are allowed to lie and decompose naturally, they are a problem for no one.

How to spell relief? Not with compromise

by JOHN S. MATIJEVICH
State Representative

Was the overtime session of the legislature 18 days past the normal June 30 adjournment worth it?

NO! It was frustrating for all of us. In the end, we had to pass a compromise agreement.

Gov. Jim Edgar was holding out for a permanent extension of the income tax surcharge. The compromise was that the one-half of the income tax surcharge that has gone to education will become permanent. Presently, the other 50 percent of the surcharge goes to local governments. Under the agreement, local governments next year will receive 25 percent of the surcharge and the state will receive 25 percent. The following year, local governments will receive 37 1/2 percent and the state will receive 12 1/2 percent. The surcharge as it pertains to local government and the state will be a two-year temporary extension.

Because local governments will receive less revenue than they had under the surcharge the past two years, a provision was approved allowing cities to implement an interstate message tax. It would be a temporary two-year authorization and municipalities must adopt local ordinances to receive the tax on long-distance calls.

For the last two years, property taxpayers have been allowed a double deduction on their income tax for property tax relief. That has cost the state about $168 million. Rather than the double deduction, this year's agreement allows taxpayers a 5 percent statewide property tax credit on the income tax form. This amounts to about one-third less tax relief than last year. It will cost the state about $135 million, or $33 million less than the double deduction.

The other issue that held up the regular session was what to do with property taxes. Rather than the 5 percent cap on property tax extensions statewide, the compromise was to apply the cap to collar counties only, effective Oct. 1, 1991. In Cook County, there will be a one year freeze based on the prior year equalized assessed valuation. Also, the Cook County Board will be allowed to implement a four property tax payment schedule.

The property tax cap became highly controversial, Park districts, townships, fire protection districts and other small local governments which rarely go to the 5 percent cap are concerned that their prior conservatism will be penalized by such limits. Critics say that the caps are not tax relief and that local governments will not use it as a ceiling, but a floor, and immediately go to the increase. Others say that the local governments that more than any go beyond the 5 percent cap are school districts and that the quality of education will suffer with such limits.

The extension of the income tax surcharge and the collar county property tax caps were incorporated into one bill. The first vote was taken in the House where Speaker Michael J. Madigan and Minority Leader Lee Daniels sponsored it in a bipartisan move. It received the extraordinary majority and the next day the Senate overwhelmingly passed it. That signaled the end to the long, tiring stalemate. I supported the compromise agreement, including very deep cuts necessary to balance the budget.

The governor and legislative leaders hopefully learned one lesson from all of this. Everything necessary to run government can be done by June 30 and to force government shut-down and deadlock is irresponsible. We'll find out next year whether they learn from this horrible experience.

Letters to the Editor

Fed up with 'leaders'

Editor:

I am shocked and disgusted with the so-called leaders of this country. How could they possibly vote themselves a raise of $23,000 at a time when the economy is so poor and so many people are out of work. I worry how to pay my bills with an income of less than $23,000.

The way the U.S. senators did it was awful. They sneaked it through after the doors were closed. The senators evidently are sticking their heads in the sand when it comes to the welfare of the citizens of this country of two classes---the rich and the poor.

Of our two senators from Illinois, one voted no and one voted yes. I suggest the voters in Illinois find out who vote yes and do something about it. Write and remember their name when you go to the polls.

Joni Haas

Editor's note: Sen. Paul Simon, reelected in 1990, voted yes. Sen. Alan Dixon, seeking reelection in 1992 voted no. Both are Democrats.

Children sacrificing

Editor:

With school Dist. 116 in financial need, why do program cuts show signs of prejudice and discrimination?

Cuts in programs should be across the board, not just a select few. The minority of the children affected by these cuts will suffer. School officials gave themselves a raise thanks to the sacrifices of our children.

As a parent of three children I try not to show favoritism so I won't turn one child against the other. I could not live with myself if I saw my children go without while my husband and I flourished.

Issues transcend thong

Editor:

I feel it insulting that the question of banning the thong bikini could cause so much concern. Round Lake Beach residents should have far greater concern for the rapidly growing crime rate, the increasing number of gang activities and the million dollar school deficit.

The thong issue is a moral question that depends on how we were raised. If you are embarrassed by the human body, the thong (Continued on next page)

ANYONE FOR SOCCER?

Libertyville taxpayers better like soccer. And a new entrance with turn lanes on Winchester Rd. for players and parents.

Your taxes are paying for both. If your home is assessed at $100,000, the amount is $130 each year; for a $150,000 home its almost $200 and if you have a $200,000 mansion, the tax is $260.

That kind of money will be paid through the year 2001 for the Libertyville Twp. Open Space program. The state's first township open space program issued bonds in 1986 for such things as 115 acres of land costing $1 million.

Now, some of that land and money will be put to a new use. Acreage near Rte. 45 and Winchester Rd. will become a complex for the Greater Libertyville Soccer Assn. To make sure it is worthy of Libertyville, the township board will give it a $500,000 running start.

Some $40,000 to $50,000 will go to improve Winchester Rd. in the same area to make the complex easier to reach.

"The $500,000 for the soccer complex was approved in an illegal, closed session of the town board," former Libertyville Twp. Supv. F.T. "Mike" Graham said. "This money was intended for the preservation of land, not to buy votes from the electorate by building a soccer complex."

"The public is being swindled," Graham said, "by Ralph Swank & Co. The public will continue to pay for these actions for years to come."

G-STRING AFFAIR—Round Lake Beach is getting on the map. It's all because some girls/women want to let it all hang out.

Two of them have been spotted occasionally wearing a skimpy, G-string-like thong to the village beach. Another woman became incensed when one of the wearers refused to cover herself. Some 1,000 signers on petitions she circulated agreed.

Now, the issue will go to referendum in the fall.

As of late Village Clerk Donna Langel has been getting more publicity than Mayor Carl Schrimpf. That's because she's generally in the office when the media calls.

Inquiries come from all over, two or three of them a week. "I'm sure all of this will die down once school resumes," the clerk said. "I sure hope so. I've got other things I'd like to do."

TATTLING IN VOGUE—Antioch has new "turn in your neighbor" program. An idea of the police department, it is getting mixed reaction.

Targeted are drivers without vehicle stickers. They were due May 1. Anyone who wants to snitch on a neighbor calls the police at (608) 395-8585. Police run the owner's plate through their computer. The cost is $12.50. It was $10. If no sticker has found to have been purchased, the violator gets a warning letter. If that is ignored, a $50 fine could follow.

Chief Charles Miller says some people turned in are tattling about others. He expects the program to pick up between $5,000 and $12,000. "In either case, there's going to be a hell of an increase in income at no cost to the village," he said.

Miller came up with the idea after 25 years of listening to residents who buy stickers gripe about those who don't.

HISTORIC HAINESVILLE—Hainesville, the oldest village in Lake County, is also one of its smallest. Only Old Mill Creek is smaller.

The 1980 census showed Hainesville with 187 residents. That dropped to 137 in the intervening decade. The 1990 headcount shows 189 living, breathing souls, which has village officials ecstatic.

All that is destined to change in the next three years. The new Deerpoint Trails subdivision of 202 homes bordering Grayslake will add 700 to 1,000 residents.

Already being considered is a larger police department.

Village hall will have to change, too. The two-story brick building with no windows on Rte. 120 may need a village clerk who is there more than two Tuesday afternoons a month.

Fourteen-year Mayor George Benjamin, who brought Deerpoint Trails to town, may have to change, too. Village board meetings will have to start at the appointed hour of 7:30 p.m. instead of 15 minutes later. The water cooler will also have to be fixed. So will the digital clock that never shows the correct time.

Smoking will have to be moved to a restricted area. (Hainesville is the only public body to allow smoking during board meetings.) With three trustees still on nicotine, the air is thick enough to cut with a knife after an average 2-1/2 hour board meeting.

But this may take a little time. After all, Hainesville didn't get where it is today without a lot of history.

NO DISCOUNT—Gurnee Mills is scheduled to open early next month. Billed as the world's largest outlet mall, the complex will cost $220 million.

The idea more than a few people from Wisconsin will make a bee-line for the bargains doesn't make some people in the dairy state happy. Among them is Milwaukee County Treasurer John Siefert.

He said the developer of Gurnee Mills, Western Development Corp., owes his county some back taxes. They amount to $796,560 in Milwaukee County dating to 1987 for land that makes up the Greenfield Fashion Center on the southeast side. There is another $878,385 due in adjoining Waukesha County for taxes going to 1988 on the Brookfield Fashion Center.

"This is an outrage to the average taxpayer," Siefert said. He promises to begin foreclosure action Oct. 15 if the taxes are not paid.

To Western's credit, it has been paying about $200,000 a month on its 1988 taxes. This means the taxes could be paid and foreclosure stalled. Similar action on the 1989 taxes could not take place until 1992.

Unpaid taxes in Milwaukee carry an 18 percent interest rate.

Vacationers returning from the east this summer told about reading similar tax news about Western Development in the Washington, D.C., area where the developer has another of several malls.

Save collection

Editor:

The special meeting of the Cook Memorial Library board and the Lake County Genealogical Society at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, July 30, needs to be emphasized. Closing the Cook Genealogy Dept. virtually closes the opportunity for us to do our research.

The Cook Memorial Library enjoys a fine reputation among genealogists because of the important collection and great variety of material now on the shelves.

It is imperative that the collection remain at Cook where it is available to local tax-paying, voting society members and their guests.

Bobbie Black Briggs

Stop eviction

Editor:

I am disturbed to learn that the Lake County Genealogical Society collection may be evicted from the Cook Memorial Library premises.

As past membership chairman for two years and having planned the trips to various other libraries and institutions, including The Federal Archives, for three years to enable our many members and friends to further their family history research, it saddens me to even imagine the genealogy collection being forced to move.

Moving the collection to the College of Lake County seems to be an insult to the many people that have worked so diligently for so many years to build the collection.

I recently read that genealogy is the fastest growing hobby in the world today. It seems to me that this decision deserves more consideration and I trust that the board will do just that. I would also urge the near 200 members and the many friends of genealogy to attend the hearing on July 30.

Donut duo's design hardly half-baked

by GREG MILLER
Lakeland Newspapers

The colloquialism goes, "I'll bet you dollars to donuts," but I'll bet you Sunny Cherian and Philip Abraham know how to turn donuts into dollars.

Sunny and Philip — both natives of the state of Kerala in southern India — are becoming holey terrors in the donut business.

A couple of years ago, Sunny and Philip were two of four partners in a Dunkin' Donut franchise on Belvidere Road in Waukegan.

Seeing the bigger picture, the duo proceeded to buy out the other two partners. In June, they opened another store at the corner of Rte. 12 and Grand Avenue in Fox Lake. They've already been awarded a third franchise, which will open some time this fall in Round Lake.

Sunny said the sky's the limit. A McHenry store is a strong possibility.

"I have definite plans of what I want to do," Sunny said. "I want to start five or six satellite stores in the next two or three years."

Sunny was just 23 when he decided to come to the U.S. in 1973. He'd just earned a bachelor's degree in English and had been teaching for six months.

Over here, Sunny got hooked up with Burger King, and spent 15 years as a restaurant manager.

When the promotions ran out, it was time to move on.

"The bureaucracy — you can't get anywhere," Sunny said was his Whopper stopper. "You can only get so far because of the disqualifications they say you have."

Philip, who came to the states in 1975, was working as a technician in a factory. Philip and Sunny met and became friends while both attended the Chicago Marthoma Church. They've been friends for about 10 years.

Sunny said Dunkin' Donuts is no half-baked corporation.

"They're trying to change within the system," he said. "They're enforcing their franchising standards more than they did. They're making sure their franchisees are

'I have definite plans of what I want to do. I want to start five or six satellite stores in the next two or three years. — Sunny Cherian more qualified.

"I believe they're trying their level-best to achieve a quality standard all around."

The main fare at Dunkin' Donuts is, of course, donuts and other pastries. There's also a breakfast menu, and sandwiches are ready for lunch and dinner.

"I believe in freshness," Sunny said. "We make donuts twice daily, and that makes for a much better product than grocery chains — they use a lot of preservatives, and we don't."

So far, the new Fox Lake franchise is looking good.

"The community has been very supportive," Sunny said.

The Fox Lake store offers a different challenge.

"Here, we have a lot of vacationers and a lot of different people come in," Sunny explained. "Over there (in Waukegan), we have a steady flow of regulars."

Like every business, there have been hills and valleys.

"There are bad times and there are good times," Sunny said. "It's not a special problem I've had to face by myself. That's what's expected."

Martin Associates joins Uptown Habitat project

"The sky was filled with balloons, singing, prayers and a genuine aura of thanksgiving," said Landscape Architect Bruce Dvorak about the dedication ceremony of the newest and largest Uptown Habitat for Humanity project.

Found on the corner of Kenmore and Leland in Chicago, the construction of a 12-unit homesite was successfully coordinated by leaders of the Christian organization.

Dvorak was one of four landscape architects who donated time to design a site master plan.

The last Uptown project, like most Habitat projects, was built through the efforts of hundreds of volunteers and donors to provide affordable homes for low-income families. A new donor among the group, James Martin Assoc., Inc., of Vernon Hills felt the enthusiasm behind the project from the minute they became involved.

Sue Lange, another landscape architect with Martin Associates, said, "Last fall I read in the newspaper about a kitchen designer who was donating and installing cabinets for the Uptown building. It sounded like a great project." Lange took the idea to her co-workers and together they decided to look into the possibility of donating a landscape design for the Leland-Kenmore site. Not long after the firm decided to get involved, John Bunton, site construction manager for the project, came to the Vernon Hills office to introduce Habitat to the Martin group.

Bunton said that we could provide Habitat with a complete master plan for the site. He was very inspiring and was able to get us really excited about our involvement," Lange said. "It wasn't long after that meeting that four of our landscape architects quickly became dedicated to completed this project."

Tom Bolas, design team project manager, said the group wanted to provide the residents of this Uptown project with a place that was safe yet aesthetically pleasing. The completed plan included a black wrought iron fence surrounding the property with security gates at each entry. The fence and gate were chosen to visually connect the site with the existing neighborhood. Providing year-round visual interest are Washington Hawthorn trees and Burgundy Glow Ajuga, a flowering ground cover, anchoring the ends of each building unit.

"Each owner's entry is defined by a low hedge that provides space for flower pots, seating or anything that will make home feel like home," Bolas said. Concrete walks from the entries were designed to lead homeowners to an open brick-paved square surrounded by plantings and flowers. The long-term master plan provides these open areas with benches adjacent to pockets of flowers. "This space is meant to provide a place for rest and conversation," Bolas said. Walks intersect the brick areas, making each unit accessible to the next. "The master plan focuses on the importance of personal space and security. The design is simple but provides more of an outdoor living area than many of these people have ever had. If we can enrich the lives of these homeowners in any way, then our involvement was well worthwhile," Bolas said. "We hope to get involved with another habitat project this winter."

Habitat for Humanity is a nation-wide program that provides opportunities for donors and volunteers to get involved with constructing homes for the poor. Once completed the homes are sold to these people at affordable prices.

Martin Assoc., a landscape architect, construction and management firm, is made up of landscape architects, land planners, horticulturists and turf care specialists. Together the staff provides a variety of design, maintenance, construction and consulting services.

Stand Guard expands into telecommunications industry

Mike Simon, president of Stand Guard, Inc., announced his company's expansion into the telecommunications industry. For nearly 17 years Stand Guard has been designing, installing and servicing security systems for residential and commercial installations in the greater Chicagoland area.

"So many of my clients have asked us about phone systems, and up until recently I could only refer them to any number of contractors," said Simon. "But now, we've done our homework and made the commitment to design, install and service phone systems in the same way we have with security systems."

Simon's firm spent over three months in extensive market and product research to find the most appropriate phone systems for their clients. Of the myriad of systems on the market today, two manufacturers' systems continued to rise to the challenge—Panasonic and Inter-tel.

"Part of our decision was not only based on product capability and system expandability, but manufacturer stability as well," continues Simon. "Everyone knows how reliable the names Panasonic and Inter-tel are."

Skip Okrae, long time employee of Stand Guard, has been named as general manager of the phone system division and will chiefly be responsible for system design, installation procedures and scheduling.

Simon continues to explain that the Panasonic system is mainly for residential and small business applications, while the more powerful Inter-tel systems are appropriate for small to mid-size commercial installations.

The main features of the Panasonic system include: capable of interfacing single line designer or portable phones, separate tone on phone for door station call, hands free intercom throughout, three different phone systems, conference calling, LCD display and now display phones and data security transmitting.

The Inter-tel commercial system features: automatic call costing, station to station messaging, toll restrictions, attendant recall, busy line and station call back, data device interfacing and Fax machine support.

Both systems are competitively priced, backed by Stand Guard's service division and include manufacturers warranties.

"In this day and age of facsimile machines, info-center terminals, modems, computers, data terminals and every kind of telecommunications device, it's often difficult for homeowners, builders and businessmen to wade through the volumes of information and various technologies available," said Simon.

As with security systems, Simon suggests an in-depth consultative session to determine phone system needs and the method of installation. Phone systems today are more sophisticated and capable than ever before of servicing every kind of need.

"We work hard to take the worry out of choosing a phone system," concludes Simon. "If you tell us what you need and what you want, we'll design a system to meet or exceed those desires and design a system that will be cost effective as well."

For more information or an on-site demonstration call Okrae at Stand Guard (708)526-2611.

Hawthorn Lakes seniors challenge Mr. America

Fit after 50

Monroe Saffold, Mr. America 1990-91 for the age group 40 and over, flexes his muscles for seniors Theresa Boehm and Thomas Lauer of Libertyville at Hawthorn Lakes retirement community.

Seniors at Hawthorn Lakes demanded more. Neck circles, arm reaches and wrist shakes were just not enough.

Monroe Saffold, Mr. America 1990-91 for the age group of 40 and over, put seniors to the test at a "Fit After Fifty" workshop at Hawthorn Lakes retirement community in Vernon Hills. Saffold, however, found the seniors were not only ready and willing, but able to do all he asked and more.

"There is no question, they are an active group. I could see the enthusiasm and determination in their faces," said Mr. America.

For 90 minutes, Saffold had the full attention of more than 60 seniors. With tips on how to stay healthy, Saffold led the group in armchair aerobics. He told seniors exercise did not need to be painful to work.

"This was excellent," raved Hawthorn Lakes resident Charlotte Duenow. "Mr. America has so much charm, ability and culture. It was a great way to spend the afternoon."

Saffold also touched on topics such as diet. The seniors impressed Saffold not only with their knowledge of fruits and vegetables, but also with their weekly exercise. Activities Director Kathy Morris holds classes three times a week.

For a finale, Saffold played classic oldies on the piano. As seniors listened and sang the words to "Moon River" and other memorable tunes, they moved their bodies and tapped their toes. They agreed with Mr. America, it was time to show everyone that they too can be as active as anyone else.

Healthy houseplants help make a healthier you

For years, indoor gardeners have grown houseplants and interior designers decorated with them. Houseplants are, however, much more than inexpensive, attractive decorations. They actually benefit your indoor environment and can lift your spirits.

Because they exchange carbon dioxide for oxygen through photosynthesis, houseplants help purify the air. Research by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) showed that certain houseplants dramatically reduced the pollutants in sealed experimental chambers. Some houseplants can absorb harmful chemical vapors such as formaldehyde, benzene, and carbon monoxide. Common houseplants tested included: English ivy, Chinese evergreen, philodendron, ficus, and peace lily.

In addition, lush foliage and blooms provide a bright and cheery atmosphere in any room. Plants appear to reduce stress and improve self-image. They also teach long-term values such as caring for something that is dependent upon you.

Taking care of plants is easy and very rewarding. All it takes is common sense, a little love, and such plant care basics as proper fertilizers, temperature, humidity, watering and light.

Many houseplants will thrive in a bathroom or kitchen, where humidity levels are higher. Any bedroom, living room, or dining room can be home to a houseplant, even if there is little or no natural sunlight.

Artificial light from fluorescent tubes or incandescent bulbs is equally acceptable to most plants.

Protects your plants from unwanted "visitors" like aphids, spider mites and mealy bugs can be more than an annoyance, if left untreated, they can kill or severely damage your house and patio plants.

Plant lovers should take preventive action by periodically applying a safe, effective insect control product to all house and patio plants. If infestation occurs, take immediate action and treat the problem aggressively.

When purchasing a plant insect control product look for the following: a control product that quickly kills insects on contact and keeps working for days; use a spray type of bug killer that is micro-encapsulated, this will provide a controlled-release source of insecticide to extend the residual control of insects; because insects could continue to infest plants for weeks after treatment, it is best to use a timed-release product.

METRA bulldozes crossing, maroons dream house

by KRIS NOBILIO

The Latin term "caveat emptor", which translates into "buyer beware", has taken on a whole new meaning for a local couple.

On October 13, 1985, Chris Wehde, just out of law school, and her husband, Steve, purchased a 20-acre parcel of property on Ingleside Dr. in unincorporated Ingleside with, as Chris puts it, "The intention of building their dream home." The parcel was purchased from Steve's aunt and uncle, who had owned the property since the 1950s. The lot is accessible only by a railroad crossing, a dirt access from the public road side of the railroad tracks. Although only a dirt crossing, it also provided neighboring properties their only access as well. Aerial photos from the county's Aerial Photograph Office depict the existence of this farm crossing as far back as at least 1939.

In the fall of 1987, Steve upgraded the dirt crossing, installing timbers and gravel. He was in the process of clearing his land and felt the crossing needed some maintenance. METRA, owner of the railroad tracks, at this point voiced no opposition against Steve's activities. Nor did one of METRA's engineers in an Engineer's Report of May 1988. A METRA spokesperson said he could not comment on a case involving litigation.

In October of 1988, as Chris pulled her car out of the driveway to go to court one morning, she spied a white slip of paper near her front door. The slip was correspondence from METRA, which had been delivered by their representative the previous evening, and informed the Wehdes that their crossing, their only means of accessing their property, would be removed that morning at 8 a.m. Chris immediately went to the property and found a METRA policeman already at the site. She asked the policeman to wait to remove the crossing, as she was going to obtain an injunction. By the time Chris was able to procure the injunction and return to serve it, the crossing had been removed. "I returned to find a bulldozer being loaded onto a trailer and my husband almost in tears," Chris recalls.

Since then, a legal battle has begun between the Wehdes who are co-plaintiffs with a trust owning property adjacent to theirs also adversely affected by the crossing's demise, and METRA. The Wehdes have made pleas to numerous state and local political figures in an effort to alert them to the situation and in hopes that their intervention could get the crossing replaced and at the same time stop legal proceedings that in addition to costing the Wehde's thousands of dollars, also deplete the coffers of tax dollar-funded METRA. While none of the authorities contacted have been able to render much assistance, Chris states she found them to be "gracious and sympathetic."

Steve and Chris Wehde will probably spend much of their time between now and the anticipated fall trial trying to strengthen their case against METRA through gathering witnesses who can attest to the crossing's existence.

SAMP seeks sites for shoreline stabilization

As part of the ongoing SAMP (Chain O'Lakes-Fox River Special Area Management Plan) activities being conducted in the Chain O'Lakes area, a work group has been formed to address the problem of shoreline protection and erosion control.

This group is seeking individuals interested in participating in a program to develop shoreline protection demonstration projects on the Chain O'Lakes.

As part of the environmental subcommittee of SAMP, they are promoting alternative methods of bank stabilization and erosion control. Through this program they are offering consultation and planning assistance for individuals interested in installing some type of shoreline protection.

Dan Ray, work group leader, points out that they are not offering financial assistance for the installation of breakwalls. Rather, they are trying to establish several demonstration projects which will help make people aware of the fact that there are environmentally sound alternatives to steel or wood seawalls.

Examples of preferred shoreline protection and bank stabilization methods include vegetation, regrading, combinations of geotextile fabric and rocks, broken concrete or blocks, wire baskets filled with rocks (gabions) and rock or wire mattress structures.

People should be made aware of the fact that there are viable alternatives to steel, concrete or wood breakwalls. These traditional structures are often expensive to install, they reflect waves back into the waterway, and eliminate the natural shoreline and underwater structural characteristics which provide fish and wildlife habitat.

There are many methods and various combinations of measures that are appropriate for different sites. The Shoreline Erosion Control Demonstration Work Group hopes to establish several demonstration projects that will exemplify a variety of measures suited to the different types of site prevalent on the Chain. Ideal areas for demonstration projects would be in highly visible locations readily available for public viewing from the water, and accessible from land for on-site inspection.

The specific shoreline protection methods used will depend upon factors such as water depth, bottom conditions, bank height and slope, local wave and current conditions, as well as landowner preferences and economic considerations.

Ray stresses that they are not offering financial assistance for these projects, but because this group draws from the resources of several federal, state and local agencies, they can offer some expertise in on site planning and basic consultation in discussing alternative measures of erosion control and the associated costs and benefits.

People who have a site on the Chain O'Lakes and are interested in developing a demonstration project should contact Ray at (708)587-3140.

Breakthrough developing in contract negotiations

There may be a break-through developing in the longest teachers' contract negotiation in Lake County history.

Negotiations began at Gavin School, located between Round Lake and Fox Lake, in June, 1990, and still are continuing. The faculty worked the 1990-91 term without a contract.

Asst. Supt. Robert Bein, head of the school board negotiating team, reported that rank and file teachers are tiring of the protracted negotiations that have been marked by on-and-off sessions with a federal mediator and tense sessions with Illinois Education Assn. bargainers.

"I sense that our teachers are getting ready to wind up the negotiations. I'm hopeful that they will be able to sign a contract before school opens Aug. 27," Bein stated.

Bein said that he believes the Gavin faculty, in general, liked the board's last offer made in early June, a 21 1/2 percent salary hike spread over three years, 100 percent medical insurance coverage and a variety of other fringe benefit improvements plus hefty increases in starting pay levels for beginning teachers.

"We've sincerely tried to address the things teachers said needed to be changed in their contract," avowed board president Richard Woods.

School officials were shocked when their last offer resulted in official notification from the IEA of intent to strike, a legal requirement if a walk-out results.

The bargaining unit includes 39 members. Gavin has an enrollment of approximately 1,000 students served in three buildings in a district devoid of commercial development.

County Republicans celebrate new office

Lake County Republicans held a reception to celebrate the grand opening of their new Republican Headquarters at 332 Peterson Rd. (Brookside Plaza), Libertyville, on Thursday.

"I look forward to many successful years at our new location," said President David Amory. "The new headquarters in Libertyville is centrally located and convenient for Republican volunteers throughout Lake County."

Lake County GOP Chairman Robert Churchill pronounced the location possessing a number of amenities to meet our needs of today and well into the future.

Bridge builders

Search continues for man in parent abduction case

by ELLEN RUTLIN
Lakeland Newspapers

A search for a four-year-old Round Lake Beach girl continues after the child was abducted by her father.

Cei Cei Flora was taken from the Round Lake area during a private visitation with her father Curt Flora who was divorced by wife Patty Pscherer two years ago.

According to Pscherer, Flora never visited his daughter until almost two weeks ago when he arrived in Round Lake Beach demanding to see Cei Cei for a six month period.

The visitation took place at Billie and Frank Flora's residence, the brother and sister-in-law to Curt. When Pscherer arrived to pick up Cei Cei, she and her father were missing.

Since the abduction on July 14, Pscherer said Flora's father contacted her promising Cei Cei would be returned in 30 days if charges against Frank and Billie for adding and abetting a child abduction. However, Pscherer wants her daughter back before dropping charges.

"It's the only contact I've had," she said. "They haven't called me back at all."

A Round Lake Beach detective is handling the search for Flora and according to Pscherer, the police have leads in locating him.

Flora has a sister in Colorado and parents in New Mexico. Pscherer said New Mexico police already have searched Flora's parents house for any leads.

Flora, 27, has long auburn hair, beard and mustache. He is about six feet tall and usually wears jeans, a t-shirt and black boots. According to police, Flora's vehicle is a 1979 light blue Buick Electra with New Mexico license plates 196 AWN.

Cei Cei was last seen wearing a blue outfit with white flowers and teddy bears. She has strawberry-blond hair, hazel eyes and a scar on her forehead.

Police are seeking information on Curt Flora. Anyone who may have sighted him or his vehicle is asked to call the police department at 546-2181.

Health Dept. offers blood screening at Lake County Fair

The Lake County Health Dept. will again continue its yearly tradition of providing free blood pressure measurements for anyone visiting the departments' booth during the Lake County Fair, July 24 through 28, announced Dr. Steven R. Potsic, executive director. The booth will be located in Building 7 at the fair.

"The County Fair is a good opportunity for us to present our services and information," said Potsic. "Not only are we able to provide a valuable service such as blood pressure testing, but we are also able to let people know about the many different health department locations through the county, as well as other services and information."

In addition to the blood pressure screening, the department will feature its new water pollution exhibit, a display made up of nine landscape modules which shows how pollution can affect lakes, streams and the environment. Finally, the department's award-winning InTouch program will be on hand to distribute substance abuse prevention information.

"We hope everyone who attends the fair will take a few minutes to visit our booth," continued Potsic. "Our goal at the health department is to promote a healthy lifestyle and a safe environment."

The ground crew inflates balloon with a 30-inch fan. Below, right, the balloon cables are attached to the burner assembly. Upper right, looking down at the Lincolnshire Marriott and golf course.

UP, UP & AWAY

UPONAWAY read the license plates on the truck of Ron Briley who owns, operates, and pilots one of two balloons of Champagne Flights and Promotions, based in Libertyville.

Last week, my wife, Wendy, and I received an invitation for a ride in Ron's balloon. We were both excited as this would be our first flight in a hot air balloon. At 7 p.m., we met at Laura B. Sprague School in Lincolnshire, a site which was determined to be the best because of the current wind direction and speed. If the winds had been predicted to be more than 10 knots, the flight would have been cancelled. The forecast for the evening was perfect, some light breezes at five to 10 knots with unlimited ceilings.

Ron and Neal Anderson, pilot of the second balloon, sent off a small helium balloon to see what the actual takeoff path would be. The test balloon indicated that we needed to move about 100 yards north in order to stay out of a line of trees that bordered the field.

It was now time to assemble the balloon and propane burners to the gondola. It was amazing to see that the disassembled balloon fits into a 36-inch by 36-inch duffle bag.

Once the propane burners and balloon is assembled to the gondola, the gondola is tipped onto its side and a 30-inch, 8 hp. fan is used to inflate the balloon. As air inflates the 105,000 cubic foot balloon, Ron ignites the two 33 million btu propane burners which is equal to about 264 average home furnaces.

It was just a matter of minutes before the balloon became buoyant, lighter than air. After 20 minutes of set up, the moment we were waiting for was there. The gondola started to bounce gently off the ground. The ground crew held the gondola until all passengers were inside. With a gentle tug, the balloon was airborne. We were floating on air. Once we leveled off at around 500 feet, Ron explained the safety rules, basically, "Stay in the gondola until I tell you to get out, no matter what happens!"

There are three basic controls for maneuvering the balloon. The burners control the amount of heat for lift. The parachute top is pulled open to allow heat to escape during descent. The side vent is pulled open to rotate the balloon.

Ron told us he would go down in the next open field to do a "touch and go." He said he was doing this so we would be aware of what the landing later on would be like. He instructed us to hold onto one of the safety straps inside the gondola with one hand and put the other hand onto one of the support poles of the burners and bend at the knees at impact. Most importantly, he said, "Stay in the gondola no matter what." To my amazement, we bounced gently twice and were airborne again in seconds. It was great!

While we were enjoying floating around, the ground crew was following us in the chase truck which was communicating with Ron via two-way radio. Ron also had a two-way radio equipped with local airport channels because balloons are required to follow the same rules as all other aircraft.

The view from 500 feet became more spectacular as dark shadows from the setting sun were beginning to overtake the ground below. Unfortunately, it was now time to start our descent back to earth and the shadows.

I guess the best way to describe our landing would be to say it was a three-bouncer with a slide. We landed in what appeared to be a field under construction just west of the Vernon Hills Golf Course. On the third bounce, the gondola slid down the side of a small hill where it came to a stop. Believe me, Ron was in total control. I think he wanted to add a little excitement to the landing. All I could say was "Wow!" Floating in air was both relaxing and exciting.

After the balloon ride was over, we returned to the meeting place, where we shared a bottle of champagne with the crew. After the glasses were filled, a splash of champagne and a toast to the ground are given in thanks for a safe return.

In addition to being a balloon pilot, Ron is also a commercial rated pilot. Ron has been ballooning for over 10 years. Besides piloting balloons for the business, he also attends balloon rallies all over the world. He returned recently from a balloon rally in Austria.

Ballooning is a year-round sport. Even though the winter months in the midwest are cold and unappealing to be up in a hot air balloon, the balloons sail more efficiently because there is more lift with the colder temperatures. Although the cold temperatures keep many people away, there are more desirable breezes and clearer skies to improve the view in the winter landscape below. According to Ron, ballooning is starting to attract more winter enthusiasts.

Champagne Flights and Promotions is located in Libertyville. Cost of a flight is $130 per hour which includes a bottle of champagne. For more information call (708) 362-9724.

Whittington: Grayslake at heart of recycling

InterViews

These are frustrating times in the recycling game.

Problems include residents who view the recycling center as a garbage dump, as well as dwindling markets for many recyclables.

But Dick Whittington has seen tough times before. Whittington is the director of environment and recycling for the village of Grayslake, a non-paying position. The Grayslake recycling center is one of the oldest in the county, having started in the early 1970s.

"Everybody uses Grayslake," Whittington said, adding the surrounding towns which do not have recycling centers have their residents come to the center located adjacent to Grayslake's public works garage.

The problems Whittington faces today are typical of this sunny summer afternoon. Instead of enjoying it as one might expect a retired Abbott Labs worker would, Whittington spent 90 minutes sorting garbage. The recycling center is a money loser, as it costs $12 to haul away a load. Paper has become a real money loser for the center.

"I get a lot of compliments from others saying how this is the neatest recycling center around," Whittington said.

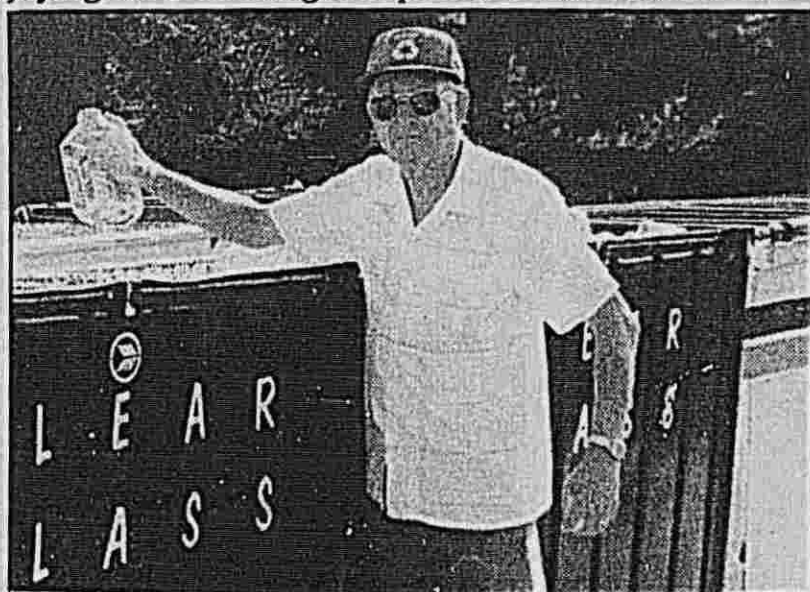

People's lack of knowledge about the recycling irks the Grayslake resident. A sign may say "corrugated boxes only," yet Whittington must sort through other kinds of boxes.

There are no rush-hours per say at the center, with the exception of close to closing time on weekends. "They'll be 15 cars here and then there will be two hours without one," Whittington said.

Whittington works out of a trailer supplied by Calvary Temple Christian Church. Some proceeds go to three food pantries: Wildwood, Avon and one in Waukegan.

Recycling center hours are 7 a.m. to noon on Saturday, 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Whittington serves as environmental advisor to State Rep. Robert Churchill. "He listens to all the experts in Springfield then he comes back up here and says, 'tell me what is really going on.'—by STEVE PETERSON

Hair today—Gone tomorrow

Latilla the Hon

I have absolutely no idea why I did it? I don't even remember calling for a 2:30 p.m. perm appointment, let alone driving myself to the Beauty-Beast Salon. I didn't even know I was there until I looked in the salon mirror and saw my head was full of loopy wand curlers similar to the rings African tribal women wear around their necks whenever any National Geographic photographers are in camp for an annual beauty/fashion shoot.

Don't laugh! All I can say is Miss Lilac must have decided she wanted a perm? I hate it when Miss Lilac emerges. I ended up with pea-green hair one time and six years ago I came home with my waist-length hair all butchered up with hair so short one couldn't even roll it on a Number 2 pencil.

I haven't been to a beauty salon ever since. The beautician told me that I told her to layer it, cut it shoulder length and spiral perm it. For six years I trimmed my own hair. I was the only one who knew whether I colored treated my hair or not? Everytime I ran into a beautician I would flash a crucifix in their face and scream, "Get back you scissors happy harpy you! I would have bolted out of there but the beauticians two burly bodyguards had me pinned to the chair. It wasn't the end of the world. At least I had some hair left. Hair cuts will regrow. Luckily my fabulous locks will be waist length again in six months.

Have any of you out there had a spiral perm? Do any of you get all excited when you see gorgeous women coming out of hair salons and you go in optimistic that perhaps you also will emerge out of the salon as stunning as Elizabeth Taylor, Princess Diana, or Farrah Fawcett? Someone tell me why so many ladies come out looking like Bozo the Clown, Phyllis Diller's wig, or Tip Toe-ing Through the Tulips Tiny Tim? Why is it you say "take off two inches" but beauticians take off a foot? Why is it I came out looking like I was Tiny Tim's clone wanna-be? I went in there beautiful. Why did I come out looking like a species marked for extermination?

Not only that but the new hairdo cost me $43! Then you had to add a tip and purchase a pick, something called styling mousse and a five gallon container of industrial strength hair spray. I couldn't believe it! I got rid of hair spray and beehive and ratted hair dos 20 years ago! As soon as I reached home I went to my vanity and parted my hair in the middle, brushed those ridiculous spirals and hairspray out, grabbed two pretty lavender barrettes and put them in just as I always do.

I'm thankful my husband didn't see me looking like Tiny Tim because I never would have heard the end of it!—by LAURA CLEGHORN

'Terminator 2' costliest, possible top summer draw

Arnold Swartzenegger and company are out with "Terminator 2—Judgement Day." Did you ever doubt it?

Although he looks and acts the same as he did in the preceding flick, Swartzenegger is a good guy this time. The story of a killer robot coming from the future with destruction in mind is a repeat, but this time Swartzenegger is a robot wearing a white hat sent to guard Linda Hamilton and her son Edward Furlong, now a troublesome teen.

Just like all the very violent pics that have become so popular, we have an R-rating here. So it's up to the parents. The kids will be chomping at the bit and unless I miss my guess the bulk of the audience.

Swartzenegger is not allowed to kill anyone. But along comes the second robot, another evil one who has been sent to get rid of the teenager before he can send his now deceased father (remember "Terminator 1") to save his mother and himself and also before he can lead the humans against the robots in the war to end all wars.

Could be slightly confusing here.

One of the best parts of the movie is the forms that this evil robot can take on his seek and destroy mission.

Although the special effects in this one are superb, the romantic plot twist that made the parent film much more than a spectacle is missing.

There is inference to a family tie between Hamilton, Furlong and Swartzenegger but this becomes a dream wish since "once a robot, always a robot."

Besides having a very commanding demeanor that really mandates attention, especially when he's carrying some of his toys of destruction, Swartzenegger becomes a rather pathetic creature because of his lack of humanization.

One of the flick's best parts comes when Swartzenegger spouts 1991 new wave jargon in his stunted but booming voice.

But it's a very good movie and should be one of the summer's hottest.

We're going to rate it at four stars out of a possible five, simply because we like to see Swartzenegger, his fantastic body, and in this one, sometimes his quick wit show up every once in awhile. That booming, stilted voice attempting a smooth delivery cracks us up.—by GLORIA DAVIS

The Lake County Fair has it all—motocross races, truck pulls, horse shows, talent contests, teen dance, delicious food and midway rides. The Fair, running through July 28 is guaranteed to show you a great time!

Come cheer your favorite pig onto a victory. The Lake County Fair will again host the popular pig races. Sponsored in part by the Lake County Farm Bureau, these little pigges will run daily at noon, 2, 4, 6, 7 and 8 p.m.

The Midway, a favorite attraction for kids and adults alike will once again feature the ferris wheel and a large selection of thrill rides. A special kiddie section will be tailored for small children. The Midway will open each day at noon.

The concept of a fair originated with the exhibit hall and livestock competitions. The Lake County Fair Exhibit and Commercial Buildings will be open for the majority of each day of the Fair.

There will be a teen dance from 8 to 11 p.m. on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, July 25, 26, and 27 at Building No. 9. Music will be performed by Electric Moves D.J. Productions and it promises to be a fun-filled time for everyone. Admission to the dance is free.

Horse shows, motocross, rodeos, demolition derbies, and truck and tractor pulls are among the featured events at the Fair.

General admission is $4 per day per person. Children ages 12 and under are admitted free and senior citizens 65 and older are admitted for $2 on Thursday and Friday. A season pass can be purchased for $10.

For more information about the Lake County Fair call the office at (708)223-2204 or the Lake County, Illinois Convention and Visitor's Bureau at 1(800)525-3669.

Old Courthouse presents Hunt exhibit

The Old Courthouse Arts Center on the historic City Square in Woodstock, will present Richard Hunt's Studio Exhibit, featuring the work of internationally-acclaimed sculptor Richard Hunt and his assistants, Christopher Gentner and Michael Symber.

Hunt has been hailed as one of the most gifted and assured artists in the direct-metal, open-form medium, not only in this country and generation, but anywhere in the world.

Born in Chicago, he was educated at the Art Institute of Chicago, and a James Nelson Raymond Foreign Travel Fellowship enabled him to study abroad. His works in bronze, steel and copper have earned him such awards as a Guggenheim Fellowship, the Ford Foundation's Tamarind Artist Fellowship and the Cassandra Foundation Fellowship.

The show will run from Thursday, Aug. 1 through Sunday, Aug. 31, with a reception for the artists on Sunday, Aug. 18 from 2 to 4 p.m.

Second City offers plenty of humor

Critic's Choice

"Welcome to the Barn Raising," Second City Northwest's seventh revue, offers more than mere barnyard humor, although if truth be told, there's some of that as well, cleverly interspersed with a number of animal slides.

A six-member cast, directed by Mick Napier, works through the production's 18 skits, some of which are slicker than others.

There's the usual mix of peppery social and political satire. President Bush's headline-grabbing adviser John Sununu figures in two of the takeoffs. During another wacky bit involving a stuck elevator, passengers are kept busy delivering a baby, undergoing a liver transplant, defusing a bomb and tap dancing—not necessarily in that order.

Jackie Hoffman and Nia Vardalos in "1-900" put a nice spin on the phone sex phenomenon, encouraging callers to get a life ("go look at a tree" or "read a novel").

"Fishing," a nicely turned skit, features Hoffman and Amy Sedaris as father and son angling for more than creatures from the sea. There's real poignancy in their banter.

Hoffman and Paul Dinello expose their underlying prejudices in "Rat."

But "Documentaries," which leads off Act Two, is too long and too weird.

However, the only serious complaint about "Welcome to the Barn Raising," is its overall length. The entire show, including an intermission, runs less than 90 minutes. Just as the rhythm picks up, it's time for the closing curtain! (And we know for a fact that Rolling Meadows doesn't roll up its sidewalks at 10:10 p.m.)—by TOM WITOM

Club Med For Kids

by JIM WARNKEN
PRESIDENT, NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

Spirited singles frolicking on the beach all day and partying all night. Is this what you think of when I mention a Club Med vacation?

Well, you are partly correct. Several of the Club Med properties still gear their activities to that clientele. However, since many of those singles have become couples with kids, Club Med has added "Kids Club" to some of their villages.

So what does Club Med offer to the little ones? How about Scuba diving lessons with special kid-sized tanks, fins and masks for ages 4 and up. Or maybe the 6 year olds would like to try their hand at the children's sailing school with sailboats just their size.

Some villages even offer a Circus school, age 4 and up, complete with flying trapeze, trampoline, and tight wire. (There's a Circus school for adults too!)

There is even a club for a real little ones called the Petite Club for ages 2-3 complete with air conditioned naptime room and their very own restaurant with smaller tables, chairs and buffet area as well as a special menu.

How much time you spend pursuing separate adult/kid interests and how much family togetherness you wish to experience, is up to you. Club Med is equipped to take the little ones for a few hours, an afternoon, all day or all week if you like. And in true Club Med tradition, there is no extra charge for the Kid's Clubs.

The Villages catering to families are the Sandpiper in Florida, Eleuthera in the Bahamas, St. Lucia and Punta Cana in the Caribbean and Ixtapa, Mexico.

The Clubs more suited to singles or couples would be Buccaneer's Creek on Martinique, Caravelle on Guadeloupe and the Magic Isle in Haiti.

The cost for taking the kids? At many villages kids stay free!

Get waist high in walleye on Lake Erie

As we pulled away heading east for Lorain County, Ohio, the morning traffic on I-294 was friendly and the hazy sky countered the rising sun. It's about 350 miles to Lorain where the tourism office warned we might get "waist high in walleye" a possibility that any angler would like to verify.

Lake Erie walleye catches have increased in the past few years including walleye, bass and perch. The salmonids, so prevalent in Lake Michigan are less frequent in Erie, but do take an occasional lure.

Ten charter boats contained angling writers from eight states. We fished aboard the Polaris, with Capt. Harv Krieg and his first mate, Virginia. She is also his 112 pound marital mate, a small bundle of quick energy which she displayed in setting out our eight trolling lines, as we moved for six hours from spot to spot while boating five fish, which comes to about one every 10 miles of our trip. The best fish of the day, a 7.5 pound walleye, caught by a Tennessee lady. It became a joke that we came from Illinois to fish Ohio, our mate was Virginia and the Tennessee lady took the prize. A widespread representation for the day.

We departed our Comfort Inn in Elyria heading for some inland fishing in the Muskegon watershed recreational area which contains 10 lakes. We wished our schedule allowed more time to visit some of Lorain County's nearby traveler attractions such as Cleveland's new river front recreation sector and their zoo, or Cedar point Amusement Park at Sandusky that boasts more rides than any other U.S. park, has a fine beach, extensive marina, sophisticated campgrounds and the Breakers, a modernized old waterfront hotel. Cedar Point ranks just below Disneyland's in visitor popularity. These are all within 25 miles of Lorain County, including Sea World, and Geauga Lake Park just off I-80 or 90 which run side by side in this sector. Opportunities for a variety of interest for all ages can be obtained easily from Lorain. Call their tourism office at 1(800)334-1673.

It was a three hour drive, southeast to our Atwood Lake destination at their resort and conference center. The roads became slower and more scenic as we enjoyed the rolling contours of the Appalachian Mountains foothills which form misty blue-purple horizons lines that change in color and design as we drive along winding rural roads past Amish postcard settings.

The Muskegon Watershed which offers 16,000 acres of flood control waters extends over 38,000 acres of basically recreational land in 18 counties. As a massive flood control conservancy, it supports itself without public taxation. Approved by the people and officially created in 1933, it has become an outdoor recreational area, self supporting and for use of those who created it. But the resulting outdoor pleasure opportunities are available to everyone. It is the only public area that receives no public tax income and even pays taxes on non-public property it controls.

The Muskegon Watershed is an oddity among parks, as it supports itself and flourishes, "on it's own" with good management, public support and other agency assistance, but no public taxes. Its one-of-a-kind pattern has been studied by other parks throughout the world. As we registered at their 105 room Atwood Lake resort, the view was more than expected. Grounds and building were spotless as were adjoining areas of cabins, campgrounds and marinas, with a testy 18 hole golf course and a 9-hole par 3, lighted for both guests and the general public. The resort can be reached by calling 1(800)362-6406, for details and brochures.

Center Stage in Lake Forest will present the Tony-award winning hit "Into the Woods" at 8 p.m. on July 26, 27, Aug. 1, 2, and 3 at Gorton Community Center, 400 E. Illinois Rd., Lake Forest. Reservations and information can be obtained by calling (708)234-6062. Pictured is "Cinderella" Stacy Epel and her prince charming, David Gordon.

MEDINA

OVERALL DIMENSIONS: 88'-0" X 44'-0"
LIVING: 1585 square feet
GARAGE: 965 square feet

MEDINA (209-38) By Landmark Designs, Inc.

The Medina is designed specifically as a retirement home for people who enjoy traveling in their motor home. Nearly as much square footage is devoted to vehicle shelters as to indoor living space.

In addition to accommodating two cars, the garage has a third, slightly longer, stall designed to shelter a boat. An additional 32-foot-long carport provides protection from the rain for a recreational vehicle.

Inside, the master suite, utility room, living room and kitchen/dining area are quite spacious. The guest bedroom is smaller but has a large closet. The utility room is brightened by a skylight, and could be used as a den or hobby room. Washer and dryer are concealed behind pocket doors.

The master suite has a walk-in closet, linen storage and a large bathroom with separate tub and shower. Sliding glass doors open onto a deck.

Skylights in the vaulted ceiling illuminate the large living room, making it appear even more spacious. At one end of the room, the wide bay window provides a focal point. The woodstove, nestled in a brick-lined corner, provides visual interest and warmth at the other end of the room. Openings in both corner walls behind the woodstove open up the heat flow to other parts of the house.

Amenities in the U-shaped kitchen include an eating bar, plenty of cupboard and counter space, a pantry, and space for both a freezer and refrigerator. The adjacent eating area could be outfitted informally, as a nook, or formally, as a dining room.

For a study plan of the MEDINA (209-38), send $7.50 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name & number when ordering). Designers, Architects and readers with plans they would like to see featured also are invited to contact Landmark.

Round Lake Colts shoot for state championship

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

Round Lake's Colt league baseball team is heading west with high hopes this week.

The Round Lake contingent will be going for a state title after wrapping up the Lake County Colt crown with a 13-0 win over Waukegan Police.

Action began Wednesday in the state double elimination tournament in Rockford. "I'm going in there with strong intentions," Round Lake Manager Glen Jewell said.

Round Lake has added two players it hopes to put it over the top. Catcher Matt DeMartini and pitcher Dave Jones joined the team from Lake Villa. Round Lake comes into the tourney with a 36-8 record, and finished third in the state last year.

Aggressiveness has been the watchword for Round Lake this year and that aspect showed up in two games last week.

The contest with Waukegan Police, who earlier had given Round Lake its only Lake County league loss, was still close in the third inning. Round Lake led 2-0 and Joe Vavrik led off with a walk. He stole second and after Scott Muellemann singled, the two executed a delayed steal with Vavrik scoring for a 3-0 lead. Mike Niemczyk then blasted a home run and the team was on its way to an 11-run inning.

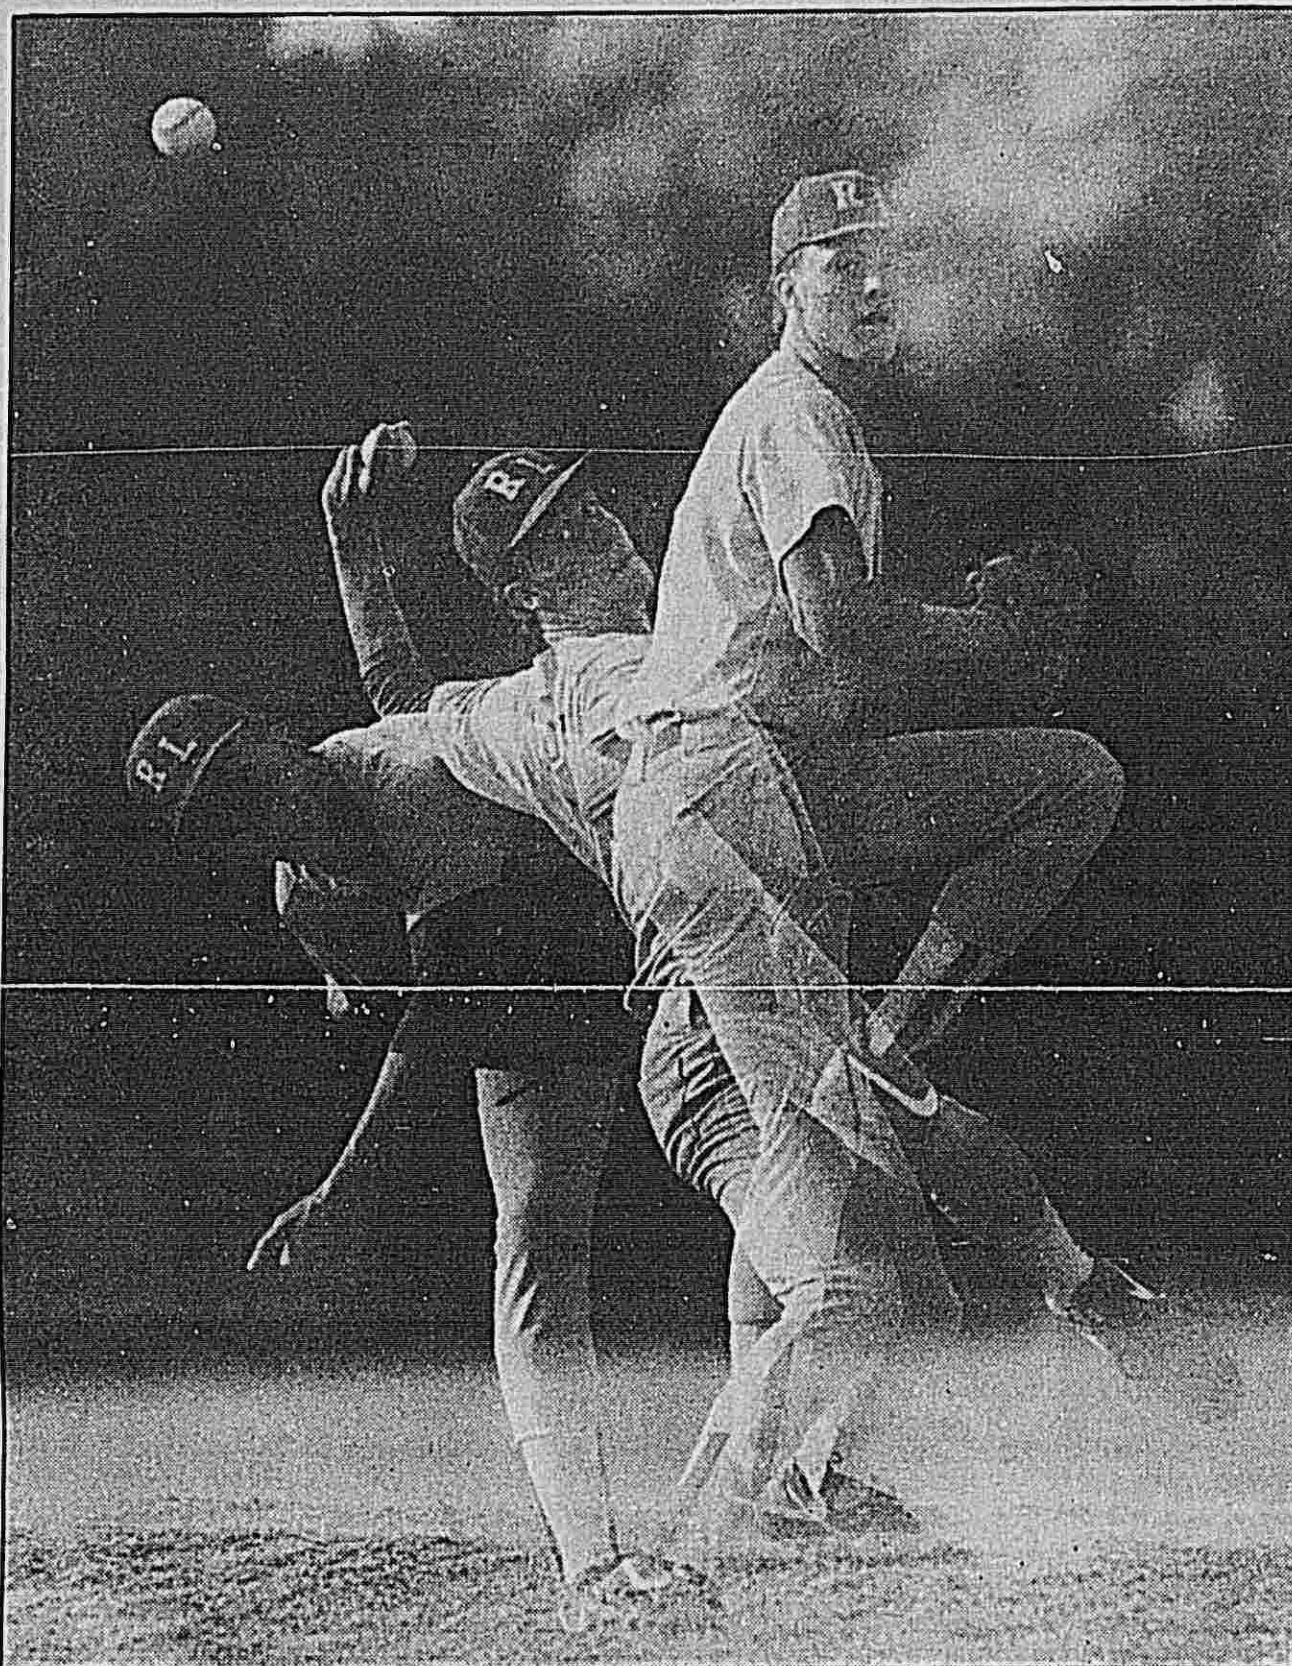

"We have a lot of speed on our team and we like to utilize that," Jewell said.

Round Lake pitching standout Pat Lejman picked up the win, allowing just two hits in the five-inning game. One was to the second Waukegan batter in the first inning, preventing Round Lake fans from watching a near no-hitter.

Mullemann had three hits, while Niemczyk, Lejman, Justin Koski, Mitch Levandowski each had two hits.

Round Lake played in a tourney in Bowen Park this weekend and split two 5-4 decisions.

In the seventh inning of the win, aggressiveness paid off as Koski had a pinch hit single, moved to third on a wild pitch and scored on a wild pitch for a 5-4 win over North Suburban Colt League All-Stars.

Niemczyk tied a game against Waukegan with a three-run homer in the seventh at 4-4, but Waukegan then scored the winning run.

Colts face various talent levels

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

Imagine you're a professional basketball team and you have to play the Sacramento Kings one night and the Chicago Bulls the other. Nothing in between. For a whole season.

That's the kind of situation the Round Lake Colt team found itself in when the team decided to join the tougher North Suburban Colt League as well as the Lake County League. The North Suburban teams were the Bulls of youth baseball while the local county league offered little challenges.

"I was really happy with second place in the North Suburban. This was our first year and we were the first first-year team to finish year the top. You hope to be competitive and keep your heads above water," Round Lake Manager Glen Jewell said.

"We had 39-0 wins in the Lake County league and then we had to come back with 3-1 games in the North Suburban league. It takes dedication to flip the switch like that and my kids have shown they can do it"

The Colts finished 12-2 in the North Suburban, won by Palatine.

The team was 13-1 in the Lake County league, with the only loss coming at the hands of Waukegan Police. The two teams clashed for the league title Wednesday.

Pat Lejman continues as the Round Lake top pitcher but has added a weapon. "He has swung a red hot bat and that is added something extra," Jewell said.

Other leading hitters continue to be Scott Ellenwood, Scott Muellemann, Clint Rodriguez and Justin Koski.

Round Lake swept Racine in a non-conference doubleheader after beating Waukegan Grand Bowl 12-2.

Joe Vavrik, who pitches for Grayslake High's team, threw a one-hitter in the 3-0 win. Dave Jones of Lake Villa picked up the win in the second game, a 5-4 win.

Vikings making several early strides

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

As in most scrimmages, Lake County Vikings punter Chris Fredrich was standing on the sidelines, watching teammates go through three hours, 140 plays.

Fredrich and fellow kicker Tom Vergis know their critical time will come this fall when the Vikings need a deep punt or a key field goal.

Fredrich continues his semi-pro football aspirations of making the "big time of the NFL". "Some friends of mine told me about the Vikings," Jones, a Gurnee resident, said.

Vikings owner Rick Starosta was back, wearing No. 14 as he began his 11th semi-pro season after two in the NFL. "It's a different animal. These players play for no pay, but it's a very good calibre of football," Starosta, 31, said.

The Vikings coaches were pleased with the results of the scrimmage. The set-up was 10 offensive and 10 defensive plays and the Vikings beat the Thunder 50-21.

"We are all working on parts of the puzzle and it is coming along together," new head Coach Russ Kraly said.

"Our offensive line blocking was much more advanced than any time last year," Kraly said.

The team had been working out several weeks prior to the scrimmage, at a field in Grandwood Park. "Last year, we could count on 17 guys showing up for practice. Now we have 38-40," Kraly said. Some players, seeing the level of quality, did not continue practices. Others saw playing time Sunday but may face a Tuesday cut.

"The quality has increased 30 to 50 percent, especially on the offensive line," assistant coach John Tesch said.

As for the scrimmage itself, the defense scored the first touchdown as Dewayne Koerner intercepted a pass. Walter Tesch threw a TD pass of 15 yards to Frank Ruiz for a 15-0 lead. Steve Chester intercepted another pass, Walter Tesch hit Damien Horn for a 36-7 halftime lead.

The Thunder used its first string throughout the scrimmage while the Vikes played everyone. The Thunder scored twice on the Vikings reserves for defense, closing the gap to 36-21. That would be as close as the visitors would get.

Rob Akers, a Round Lake High School graduate, intercepted a pass for a second half touchdown. Reserve quarterback Warrner Nicholas completed the scoring with a 60-yard strike to Ken Allen.

career as he awaits a that hoped-for call from an NFL team. Dallas expressed interest last year, but that did not pan out. "Miami is interested, but they want videotapes," Fredrich said.

Fredrich has been the Vikings' main kicker since the team was formed three years ago. He only played football one year in a suburban Washington, D.C. high school, but now enjoys a soccer league Wednesday nights at Palatine Park Dist. "I prefer the indoor now," Fredrich said.

Meanwhile, Bob Jones was attempting to make an impact on the defensive coaches' views in this humid day in Park City. On the first series of the Chicago Thunder of the Northern Chicago Football League, Jones knocked down a pass and made a tackle.

The 6-5, 265 pound linebacker was an all-American for a state champion at a South Carolina High School. After a career at Kentucky University, he still has

Summer camp ends on upbeat note at Antioch

Antioch baseball Coach Greg Decker sees a bright future for his program after a successful summer camp and a summer season in which underclass players gained valuable playing time.

"We had a large number of sophomores that had to play at a higher level. It may pay dividends on the long run because sophomores had to play at junior and senior level," Decker said.

The Sequoits gave Cary-

Grove a scare before losing in the first round of a summer league game 14-6. Antioch led 5-1 in the fifth inning.

Antioch found it rough going in summer league ball, losing all 19 games.

Antioch had 62 youngsters at its week-long baseball camp and Decker hopes to expand the camp for its second year.

The Antioch mentor would also like to say he is looking forward to working with Antioch's Park and Recreation Dept. as well as feeder programs in Lindenhurst and Lake Villa.

"I want to be more part of the park district and park and recreation. I want to open up the lines of communication between the high school and feeder programs," Decker said.

"Fundamentals need work, but I don't want to blame anyone in particular," he said.

'Cats, Pats reach regional semifinals

Although there will not be a trip to Naperville for the unofficial state baseball tournament as there was last year, Libertyville Coach Jim Panther is still considering the year a success.

"Early on, we lacked intensity. But later we played with aggressive type baseball it takes to win," Panther said.

The Wildcats finished the season 16-10-1. The team drew a bye in the first round of the Stevenson regional, then downed Cary-Grove 11-0. Libertyville was eliminated by Buffalo Grove 9-7.

Stevenson suffered a similar fate. The hosts beat Mundelein but fell to Barrington 8-7 for a 1-1 record.

Neither team keeps detailed statistics in the summer league, as the emphasis was on learning.

Matt Beitzel did have two hits and three RBIs in the loss to Buffalo Grove. "Buffalo Grove is the top rated team in the tournament and they have a good hitting club," Panther said.

Seniors-to-be Zac Addams, a left-hander and Matt Koswoski along with sophomore-to-be Jamie Carruthers gained solid experience.

Late-season hits spree sparks Vernon to victories

Maybe it was coming home to the friendly confines of Stevenson High School's varsity field.

Or whatever the reason, a surge of late-season hitting gave Vernon American Legion Post 1247 a chance to turn the 1991 season into a successful one.

"We've hit very well since we've come back from Florida," Vernon Coach Steve Breen said.

The hitting strength showed in the Legion Dist.

10 tournament. Vernon advanced farthest of three area teams, within a win of the state tourney in Freeport this week. Barrington turned back the Vernon team's chances with 6-3 and 9-1 wins. Lake Zurich upset

Barrington 7-3 but then lost to Vernon 10-6 and Barrington 20-10. Libertyville beat Vernon in the first round, but later lost to Vernon 9-2 and Barrington 10-8.

Breen will not get any argument about his assessment of the team's hitting from Paul Dickstein. For it was Dickstein's grand slam on the first pitch which decided the 10-6 win over Lake Zurich Saturday.

"I get the fastball on the first pitch a lot and I look for the fastball. I was just trying to put the ball in play," Dickstein, a Buffalo Grove resident said.

Dickstein's grand slam was his first.

Prior to the grand slam, Brian Miller and Mark Robich walked. RJ Jarol, who had clutch hitting in the Libertyville game, was then hit by a pitch. Dickstein then took care of Lake Zurich pitcher Dan Devito's fastball, placing it over the left-field fence.

That gave the Vernon squad an 8-2 lead, but Lake Zurich, which includes many Carmel players, did not give up.

A single by Ludwig Hoelt of Lake Zurich was followed by a Dan Gramm single for an RBI single made it an 8-4 lead. Two ninth inning runs in a frame highlighted by a triple by Todd Staehle made things nervous for Vernon.

Craig Casper picked up the win for Vernon. "Craig never looks dominant, but he rarely gives up that big inning," Breen said.

Boomer Whipple led the offensive attack in the 9-2 win over Libertyville. "He is as a consistent hitter as I have ever coached," Breen said.

Whipple went four-for-four in that game. Chris Piggott had four hits and scored two runs. Breen also credited Jarol's hitting. "He has had a good last month. He bats in a critical spot in the order, behind Whipple."

Vernon, 27-14, is at a Connie Mack tourney in Rockford this week while Libertyville is at Springfield.

Moulis wins feature race

Dave Moulis of Johnsburg became the 10th different winner of the 25-lap winged sprints feature Saturday at Wilmot Speedway. Moulis' win was on a night when several Lake County drivers claimed the checkered flag on Herb's Used Auto Parts and Car Sales night.

Tim Cox of Park City took his fourth win in the 20-lap late model headliner, Dave Zillmer of Silver Lake, Wis. won his fourth consecutive race in the 20-lap late model headliner and Raymond Hensley of Lake Villa won his second 15-lap spectator stock feature.

Cox continues his lead in the modified's point standings with 638. Winker is second with 601, followed by Lenny Ostrowski Jr. at 558.

Hanna continues in third place in sprints with Moulis fifth.

No more progress

Lake County Vikings linebacker Bobby Jones (56) gets his point across after tackling a Chicago Thunder runner in pre-season game. ## Dwarf cars make debut Fans attending races at Wilmot Speedway July 27 may have to watch their step.

For some of the smallest race cars in the world will be on display as "Dwarf" cars make their Wisconsin debut.

The 1928-48 model cars are motorcycle powered. They are on display courtesy of a new Harvard, Ill. company.

"It's been superb," Frank Christie of Affordable Racing Inc. said of the response to the cars, 46 inches tall and 1,000 pounds.

The cars are made in Phoenix and Christie became interested when he was living in Arizona last year and now serves as Midwest distributor. This will be the first time the cars will be raced on clay. They have already raced at Lake Geneva, LaCrosse, and Rockford.

The cars use Dept. of Transportation approved street tires. Christie, a Hebron resident, said the maintenance on the cars is low.

The cars will be on display after the gates open at 5 p.m. at Wilmot Speedway. The first race begins at 6:45 p.m.

Soccer standouts help teams garner medals

Two Lindenhurst youths spent a week of their summer vacation perfecting their soccer skills.

Jessica Kehrer and Joe Earl participating on teams which placed in the USA Cup tournament in Blaine, MN.

Jessica played on the second-place Artic Knights team in the under 14 age bracket while Earl played on the Schauben Athletic Club team of Buffalo Grove. That team placed third in its division.

"We went up there to visit and she applied as a guest player," John Kehrer, Jessica's Dad, said.

Jessica scored two goals and had an assist for the Fairbanks, Alaska team.

Jessica has been playing soccer for six years, completing a season with the Lindenhurst Park Dist. traveling team which finished first in the Women's Soccer League with a 7-2-1 record. She will be attending Antioch High School as a freshman next month.

The tournament was run from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. on an impressive complex of 33 soccer fields. Teams from Russia and Denmark competed.

Grant girls hold back Antioch, claim crown

The Grant senior girls softball team captured the Little League Dist. 16 division tournament, hosted by Antioch Little League softball.

Grant, proving themselves true champions, bounced back in the championship game, turning back a stubborn Antioch team 23-19.

In game one, Grant scored six runs in the first inning and held on to beat Avon 17-7. Mandy Luebke lead Avon with two hits.

The big guns for Grant were Katie Gambit and Michelle Noah. Gambit collecting two singles and scoring two runs, Noah added three singles, driving in two runs.

Grant out scored Antioch 26-10 in game two and earned a bye for game number three.

In the third game Antioch defeated Avon by a score of 12-3. Antioch broke open a close game in the bottom of the fourth, scoring six big runs on four walks, one error and three singles.

Round four found Antioch coming up from the losers bracket to face an undefeated Grant team. In an unusually low scoring game, Antioch handed Grant its first defeat. Antioch tallied four runs on five hits with Grant managing only three runs on two hits. The game was held up for 20 minutes in the top of the seventh, when Antioch put the game under protest, alleging an illegal substitute by Grant. After a call to Little League head quarters in Williams Port, the game continued with the substitution being allowed.

Bears' Anderson, Kemper unite to benefit county United Way

Chicago Bears running back Neal Anderson and Kemper Television Center united their time and talents to produce the United Way of Lake County's 1991 local campaign video, public service announcements and posters.

Anderson, who is serving his fifth year as United Way of Lake County Publicity Chairman, strongly believes in the concept of family and explains in the video the impact his family had on his career. "I really believe my family played a key role in my success," he said. "They didn't just say 'go out and play football,' they really supported me by coming to my games, not only in high school, but also in college."

The video, "Caring...The American Way," focuses on family issues from various perspectives, explains how United Way of Lake County addresses them and tells how people in the community can help.

Election judge re-appointments begin

The reappointment of Lake County election judges is in full swing, according to Lake County Clerk Linda Hess.

"Under election law, every two years the political parties review the lists of current judges and appoint or reappoint judges to serve for the next two year period," said Hess.

"We have streamlined the process for precinct committeemen who do the reviewing and appointing for their respective Central Committees," Hess continued. "And we're taking a stronger approach with committeemen regarding the appointment of judges."

Many of the problems we have on election day or in scheduling judges to work each election can be avoided by paying attention to details during the appointment period. We again have made an appeal to committeemen to be mindful of their appointments. "Each committeeman was sent a computer listing of judges appointed in his/her precinct along with an instruction sheet to aid them."

"We want to retain judges who have worked frequently and have attended training. The computer listing of judges indicates how many elections each judge has worked in the previous two-year period. If a judge hasn't worked at all, or has worked little," says Hess, "we're asking committeemen to appoint others who will be more dependable on election day. Similarly, we want to encourage the judges to attend training, and we are asking committeemen to review this component before appointing a judge."

Letters went out to committeemen on May 29, and election judges have been sent a notice that their appointments will expire this fall unless they are reappointed.

In August, the list of judges received from the Central Committees will be submitted to the Management Services, Taxation and Election Committee for approval, and from there to the full County Board at its September meeting.

"We're really pleased with the improvements we made in the election judge system," said Hess. "We are recruiting more and more judges who are getting more training. We're really proud of our judges' work, and we want them to share in the glory of efficient elections. They've earned it," Hess noted.
